PRICE OF COAL HAS BEEN BROUGHT DOWN

ONE DOLLAR TO $1.50 TON WILL COME OFF PRICE

Hundreds of Operators Meet in Washington and are Made to See the New Light.

PRICES MAY BE FURTHER REDUCED LATER

Washington, June 28.—An immediate general reduction of $1 to $1.50 a ton in the price of coal at the mine was agreed upon here today by representatives of the coal operators.

This reduction is expected to be followed by still further decreases in price after investigation into the cost of mining coal and it is probable the government will be given a still lower price than that to the general public. Hundreds of millions of dollars will be saved to the American people through this decision.

A conference of 400 operators representing all coal producing states, took quick action today toward lowering coal prices, by adopting resolutions authorizing their committees "to give assent to such maximum prices for coal as may be named by the secretary of the interior, federal trade commission and the council of national coal producing committee."

Plans were agreed on for announcement later today of tentative "fair and reasonable prices" based on suggestions from the operators, to be effective July 1.

The resolution giving "assent" to fixing of maximum prices was reported (Continued on Page 2, Column 5.)

AVIATOR HALL IS KILLED IN FIGHT IN SKY

Paris, June 28.—Corporal James Hall, of Colfax, Iowa, a member of the Lafayette Escadrille, which is composed principally of American aviators, is believed to have been killed in an encounter with seven German air-planes, according to the Herald. He was shot through the lung. His machine fell within the French lines.

Corporal Hall, who was the author of "Kitchener's mob," joined the American squadron a short time ago after being wounded in the British army and discharged.

He brought down a German airplane four days ago.

Sub-Lieut. Doreme, one of the most skillful French aviators, who has been credited officially with bringing down twenty-three German machines, has been missing since he flew over the enemy's lines on May 25 on a scouting mission. His fate is unknown.

Washington, June 28.—More than a billion dollars worth of barnyard refuse is wasted in the United States annually, which at this time is a national tragedy, according to Carl Vrooman, assistant secretary of agriculture, who, in a statement issued today, urges its conservation as a war measure by American farmers. "This is the prize waste of champion wasters of the world, the world's greatest single preventable economic leak," said Mr. Vrooman. "The experts of our department have figured that at least half of the animal refuse, all of which

Daniels Says We Disclose That a Democracy Can Also Wage War. ADDRESSES THE ANNAPOLIS CLASS Secretary of Navy Says the Croakers Have Been Silenced.

Annapolis, Md., June 28.—America is demonstrating to the world that a democracy of a hundred million persons can wage war efficiently. Secretary Daniels declared in a commencement address to nearly 200 members of the naval academy third year class whose graduation was advanced by a year to provide officers for fighting ships.

"Those who prophesied that America would not go wholeheartedly into this war have been discredited," said the secretary. "The only divided element has been as to the best method to be employed, and when the president and congress have spoken their decision has been accepted."

Tradition Set Aside. "Our tradition policy has been against any but voluntary military service. When conditions demanded the selective draft it was written into the law. There were those who told us men of military age would not enroll and riots would mark the day of conscription and the enrollment was larger than the census figures indicated."

"Congress authorized the issue of two billions of dollars for war preparations. The bond issue will be a failure," croaked a few pessimists. Their croaking was drowned by the multi-is available for fertilizer, is lost to agriculture every year.

"At this time such a waste is a national tragedy. In peace time the waste would be enough, but with the solemn duty of saving the world from famine upon us the vital need for the utmost economy of this natural resource ought to be apparent to everyone. Here is a job for the American farmer, which ought to challenge his pride and patriotism. It is not simply a colossal war measure. It is a measure which, if put into practice, will permanently benefit American agriculture."

FRENCH AVIATORS WHO WILL TEACH AMERICANS

Several picked aviators from France, all of whom have been decorated for their deeds in the air, have arrived in this country to instruct American candidates for the aero service in the intricacies of the art of war flying. ### PLAIN TALK IN MEXICO Newspaper in Capital Says Pro-German Journals Are Bought Up. EL UNIVERSAL IS FOR BREAKING OFF Would Cut the Kaiser and Join Hands With United States in War.

Mexico City, June 27.—(Delayed.)—El Universal, in a vigorous answer to attacks by pro-German newspapers on the propaganda which advocates an alliance of Mexico with the United States and a break with Germany, charges that the newspapers which have attacked the project either have received remuneration for their services or are without standing.

The newspaper says the project proposed by Dr. Alfred Zimmermann, the German foreign secretary for a Mexican-German alliance, has no advocates in Mexico while a large number of prominent men have expressed the opinion that the cause of the entente allies is the cause of Mexico.

It adds that these men have been waiting to answer attacks against the proposal that the only role for Mexico is to join the entente, but that no well known person has challenged and that no pen of prestige has been lifted and no adversary has appeared with whom they could cross swords without dishonor. El Democrat, the principal pro-German paper today prints a telegraphic statement from General Obregon, former secretary of war, saying that it is his opinion that Mexico should maintain her neutrality absolutely.

Manuel Ugarte, Argentine poet, who has been one of the leaders in the pro-German propaganda in Mexico, left for his home today.

FRENCH REPORT REPULSE OF THE GERMAN ATTACKS

Paris, June 28.—The Germans last night attacked the salient of Wattweiler, northeast of Thann, in Alsace, according to the war office announcement today. They were repulsed, leaving a number of dead.

MAKE FIRST FLIGHT.

Howard Cour, son of Mr. and Mrs. Alex Cour, 918 Harmer street, who is a member of the aviation section of the signal corps, stationed at San Antonio, Texas, in a letter to his parents, states that he made his first flight with his instructor. He ascended to a height of 4,000 feet.

HALL RECEIVES APPOINTMENT.

Indianapolis, Ind., June 28.—Archibald M. Hall, of this city, a former member of the faculty of Indiana university, was today appointed a member of the state board of education. He succeeds Pettis A. Reid, of Richmond, whose term expired May 1. Mr. Hall's term will expire May 1, 1921.

READY TO TAKE PLACE ON FRONT

Soldiers and Marines of Pershing Expedition Soon to Serve. THOUSANDS OF MEN LANDED IN FRANCE

Arrival in Europe of First Army Stirrs Britain Quite a Bit.

Washington, June 28.—Somewhere in France thousands of America's fighting men are today encamped ready to take their places in the trenches beside the seasoned campaigners of the allies.

Regulars and marines fresh from service on the Mexican border or in Haiti or Santo Domingo were landed here after a voyage in which the German submarines were eluded and all records were broken for progress over seas of a large military unit.

The news of the arrival of the troops sent a thrill through America, as it was not known that any large detachment had yet left these shores.

The forces will be a net gain to the allies, as the men will be fed, clothed, armed and equipped by this government. Already there is being stored at the encampment supplies sufficient

STRANGE MALADY KILLS CHILDREN OUT IN MISSOURI

Cape Girardeau, Mo., June 28.—Sixteen children have died within the last few days and more than twenty-five are ill from a mysterious malady that has afflicted the town of Orr, in Scott county. Doctors are said to be puzzled as to the nature of the disease. The symptoms of the disease resemble those of enterocolitis, but in other respects is different from the ailment. Enterocolitis, according to specialists in children's diseases, is an inflammation of the intestines and is prevalent mostly among small children.

GIVE UP ALL FRANCHISES

Traction Companies Will Operate Under Permits from Commission. DIRECTORS REACH DECISION IN MEET

Session is Held in New York With President Feustel Present.

In a meeting of the board of directors of the Fort Wayne and Northern Indiana Traction company, held in New York, a decision was made to give up all franchises of the company and operate under indeterminate permits from the public service commission. Franchises were given up in Fort Wayne, Huntington, Roanoke, Wabash, Peru, Logansport, Lafayette and Bluffton.

The same decision was made for the Fort Wayne and Wabash Valley Utilities company, with franchises in New Haven, Ossian, Rockfield, Flora, Camden and Uniondale, and for the Fort Wayne and Decatur Traction company with franchises in Fort Wayne and Decatur.

Advantages to the company in the giving up of franchises lie in the fact that under the permit from the public service commission time is not limited as under franchises. Also under the new system rates may be charged by petition to the commission.

In order to change it was necessary to make the decision before July 1, that being the latest date upon which the utilities of the state could surrender their franchises and accept indeterminate franchises. President R. M. Feustel, who attended the meeting, has not yet returned from New York.

NEW RECORD FOR ARMY AVIATION HAS BEEN MADE

Newport News, Va., June 28.—What is believed to be a new army flying record was established yesterday when Capt. J. B. G. Barthold and Lieutenant Stevens, of the government's aeronautical experiment station at Hampton Roads, flew from there to Mineola, L. I., in 4 hours and 15 minutes. The trip was made without mishap.

BATTERY MEMBER SHOT.

Otto Schurman, Seriously Wounded by Comrade.

Lafayette, Ind., June 28.—Otto Schurman, a member of Battery C, 1. N. G., was shot and injured here late last night by Harry Baker, who was arrested, but contends that the shooting was accidental. Schurman was calling on Miss Margaret Boyle, who lived at the home of William Shriner where Baker also had a room. According to the story told by the girl to the police she heard a tap on the window and she was followed by a shot which struck Schurman. Baker said he "carried the revolver because of a vicious dog in the neighborhood."

CONTINUE INVESTIGATION

Of German Plot to Destroy Norwegian Ships.

London, June 28.—The Copenhagen correspondent of the Exchange Telegraph reports that the Norwegian police, continuing their investigation of the plot to destroy Norwegian steamships by means of explosives brought into the country by a courier of the German foreign office, conducted a seven hour examination of Aron Rautenfels, who was arrested in connection with the conspiracy. Rautenfels showed great nervousness while undergoing an examination of two hours by the chief of the Norwegian detective force. According to the Social Democrats, of Copenhagen, Rautenfels probably will be handed over to the German authorities on Friday.

The justice committee of the Norwegian storting has decided to exercise stricter control over foreigners. It is proposed that all foreigners must possess passports and that they be prohibited from settling in certain districts.

ONLY ONE BOAT SUNK.

Rome, Wednesday, June 27.—The weekly statement of shipping losses shows that only one Italian steamship was sunk in the week, ended June 24. Arrivals at Italian ports were 583 and departures 536.

AMMUNITION IS SMUGGLED OVER THE RIO GRANDE

El Paso, Texas, June 28.—A cavalry patrol intercepted a band of thirty Mexicans engaged in carrying ammunition across the Rio Grande at Rockyford, seven miles east of here, early today. Two of the Mexicans were caught, but the others escaped into Mexico. The ammunition was dropped by the smugglers, some of it in the middle of the river.

AMERICAN JACKIES HAVE BIG SERIES

British Cousins Slow to Take Hold, Though the Ladies Seem Apt.

A British Port, Base of American Destroyer Flotilla, June 15.—(Correspondence of the Associated Press.)—The baseball season is in full swing here. Every American destroyer has one or more teams and the two days weekly when their ship is in port are devoted to industrious practice for the "big series," which is to begin next month for the championship of the fleet. ### DANCING LADY'S PALACE PARTLY VACATED BY MOB

Petrograd, June 28.—The followers of Nikola Lenin, the radical socialist leader who since the revolution, have been occupying the villa of Madamolsse Kahesinska, the dancer and favorite of the former emperor, quit her residence today. The palace, however, is still occupied by the militant Maximilists.

SIBERIAN CONVICT IS HERO OF FIGHT ON RUSSIAN FRONT

Petrograd, June 28.—The hero of the army in the wooded Carpathians is a former convict from Siberia, who, by his example, inspired an attack by forces which heretofore had obstinately refused to charge. The convict, whose rank is sergeant, led fifty volunteers in a rush on a German position. The attacking party, confused by heavy fire, wavered, whereupon the sergeant alone climbed the breastwork and buried a bomb among the enemy. Attacked by three German soldiers, he sabered and shot two of them. Then, with only eighteen followers, several strongly held blindages were rushed. This produced general panic among the enemy and resulted in the capture of many prisoners. The sergeant was given an officer's commission, two regiments invited him to take command and the whole of his division resolved immediately to participate in an offensive.

NOTE: For many years Dr. Baker has been giving free advice and prescriptions to millions of people through the press columns, and doubtless has helped in relieving illness and distress more than any single individual. Through his history, thousands have written him expressions of gratitude and confidence.

Dr. Lewis Baker, Dear Sir:—The plain Yellow Mingo is great. I have used it twice. I have been troubled with itching scalp, falling hair for two years and have tried everything heard of and nothing did any good. I probably paid out $25.00 in the last two years. But the Mingo stopped the falling hair and the itching is most gone. It is a great relief, and I surely believe that I can have my hair as nice and pretty as it was before. I can recommend it to every one who has falling hair, dandruff, and itching scalp. Yours very gratefully,

BASEBALL IS TAKEN OVER

The left are woods of a green more vivid than in America, just near enough so that an ordinary three-base hit will lose itself in the underbrush and lengthen easily into a home run. Behind and in front are stretches of fields with low hedges and stone walls all ablaze with golden gorse and field flowers.

Games Bring Crowds.

There are no grandstands, although every game played attracted a fine crowd of spectators from the ships and the town. The teams wear regulation uniforms brought from home with the names of their ships written large across their chests. The crowd makes itself comfortable on the green behind the catcher or toward first base where the sea breeze is a little brisker on a hot afternoon. The crowd always contains a good sprinkling of British tars, officers of both navies and townfolk of both sexes. The girls of the village who probably heard of baseball for the first time when the destroyer teams began laying out the diamonds, are already developing into proficient and critical fans. They take to baseball as naturally as their sisters on the other side of the Atlantic. The same can hardly be said of the menfolk, who attend the game because they "like the American boys," but who frankly can't see where the game compares in interest with football or cricket.

Sailor More Promising Fan.

The British sailor is a little more hopeful, as he has learned to understand the game fairly well from a spectator's standpoint, although it is hardly to be expected that he will try his hand at it, seriously, for some time yet. Occasionally an over confident British sailor accepts an invitation to take a place in the game but he quickly finds that baseball is not cricket and is not to be learned in a day or two. The local newspaper has made one or two attempts to report afternoon games but the censor's prohibition against the use of names or ships leaves his effort somewhat incomplete. Here is one of his attempts:

An interesting match of baseball was witnessed yesterday by American and British officers and men. Play from start to finish was fast. I never saw the catcher just a single ball, and men and girls stood behind him in a long line, almost absurdly confident of the eagle-like keenness of his eye and swift sweep of his hand.

Balls were lost several times by crashing into the little wood behind the playing field. In this connection, the players were made and the scoring on these made the crowd to cheer. The men who wielded the bat for the winning team did particularly good work, although the losing team was also good in this respect. The pitchers showed splendid judgment and one of the captains made a nice hit."

William Turner Arrested in Court House and Not in a Saloon.

William Turner, colored, night watchman for the Grace Construction company, carried a large revolver because he was afraid at times, he said, in answer to a charge of having concealed a weapon in police court Thursday morning. He had been arrested in the court house on Wednesday afternoon and not in a saloon, as the first Sentinel report stated. He was reported by a citizen who saw the gun protruding from his pocket.

"I got a gun last year when I was watching the work on the Illinois road," said Turner. "It was so lonely out there that I was afraid in day time."

Martin Grace, head of the construction company, appeared in court and testified that the man had been arrested in the court house on Wednesday afternoon and not in a saloon, as the first Sentinel report stated. He was reported by a citizen who saw the gun protruding from his pocket.

Given to Child Court.

Leon Guff, 441 Buchanan street, aged 14, and Earl O'Brien, 1824 South Harrison street, aged 15, charged with having carried on a wholesale traffic in stealing bicycles, during the past two weeks, were turned over to juvenile court. Police found parts of several wheels when they visited the homes of the youths Wednesday afternoon.

The boys say that they have been selling parts of the bicycles for junk. The barns at the rear of the boys' homes were littered with bicycle parts. One wheel had been thrown into the St. Mary's river, the boys told.

One and Another.

One case after another is making up the life of Mont Mason, of late, he told Judge Kerr. He was charged with child neglect in police court Thursday morning. He was told to appear for trial on Friday.

All right Judge. I have to be in the circuit court for the same thing on Saturday," said Mont, who lives on Oakdale drive, he says. He was released on his own recognizance.

Other Police Court Cases.

William Anderson was fined $5 and costs on an intoxication charge. William Straver, Ed Lower and John Murry were released.

LODGE NOTES.

Members of the Elks lodge will attend Saturday's base ball game in a body. Charles L. Biedlerwolf, chairman of the athletic committee, and Exalted Ruler Harry Hogan are in charge of the arrangements. Several candidates will be initiated at the regular meeting of the order this evening.

Several candidates were initiated Wednesday evening at the regular meeting of Fort Wayne circle, No. 248, Fraternal Order of Eagles. The order expects to move to its new home, on West Main street, within the next two weeks.

Members of the G. A. R. have decided to take up the work of making hospital supplies at Red Cross headquarters.

tude of voices offering hard-earned savings as freely as surplus wealth.

"Upon the heels of this unprecedented investment the Red Cross society launched a campaign to raise an hundred million dollars for that beneficent wide work of mercy. 'It is impossible,' was the comment of a few. The faith of the noble men and women with vision was more than justified when more was given than was asked.

Good Word for Congress.

"Congress is now engaged in writing a taxing bill. There is no division in congress except as to the sources of taxation, and the people will pay without protest whatever it may cost to carry this war to a successful conclusion.

"We are going to war without passion, without hatred, without lust for land, without a trace of disgrace. We do not tell the people we are fighting we hate them; only the autocracy which lures them to the juggernaut. Victory will not only make the world safe for democracy, will not only strengthen self-government and end the fiction of divine right, but it will also bring to the German people a new breath of liberty and hope for the day when they will own themselves and be no longer the pawns of militarism."

for many months. The American forces will be an independent, co-operating with the allies. It has been suggested that the Americans might be placed as a connecting link between the French and British armies, but the exigencies of the coming campaign will decide that question.

ENGLAND STIRRED BY IT.

London, June 28.—Arrival of an advance force of the American army in France is the dominating feature in the news columns of the evening newspapers, which display under big headlines such details as are allowed to be published. The Times comments on the arrival as an omen full of hope and promise to friends of ordered freedom, a sure presage of an added victory and the signal of a democratic peace to be wrung from defeated Germany, while the moral effect will be immeasurable. As a symbol of the union of mind and feeling of the democracies of England, France and the United States it promises, says the Times, to rank forever among the great historic landmarks in the moral and political history of mankind.

PERSHING HAS A HOME.

Paris, June 28.—Major General Pershing, the American commander, has left the hotel in which he has been staying since his arrival in Paris to make his home in a fine old residence in the Rue de Varenne, so as to be near his headquarters. The house, which has a magnificent garden, formerly belonged to Prince Gortchakoff. It was leased before the war by Ogden Mills, of New York, who placed it at the disposal of General Pershing.

The American commander was asked today to comment on the article entitled "Why We Are Fighting," published yesterday in the Army Bulletin, in which Gen. Pershing, the French commander-in-chief explained the objects of the war and why a premature peace must not be concluded. Gen. Pershing said:

"I have read Gen. Pershing's article with deepest interest. His answer to the question is complete and logical. The facts set forth should convince the world of the justice of our great cause. I cannot think it possible that any one should hold a different view of why we are in the war. It is quite beyond reason that any one knowing the truth should fail to condemn the course pursued by the German government and the truth has been clearly pointed out by the distinguished commander-in-chief of the French army.

"There must be no peace except a lasting peace. The ideals for which the allies are fighting must be held sacred. France will continue her splendid fight for human rights and human liberties and fresh examples of heroism for her valiant armies will still further inspire those fighting by her side."

GIVES TEN CENTS.

Child Contributes All She Had to Red Cross.

Kendallville, Ind., June 28.—A gift of all the money she had was the contribution made to the Red Cross war relief work by Laura Kessler, age 7, of Orange township, the daughter of Harvey Kessler.

When a solicitor stopped at the Kessler home and explained the Red Cross work, the small, blue-eyed child stood beside her father listening eagerly to every word that was said. The father then instructed his son to get a dollar from the purse in the bureau drawer.

At the same time the pater of little feet was heard and little Miss Laura hurried to her little bank and took therefrom ten pennies, which represented her savings throughout life. Looking up at the solicitor she counted out the coins one by one and said tenderly:

"This is all I have; take it for the Red Cross."

Many regard the child's gift to the fund as the largest made in the county.

GREATLY OVER-SUBSCRIBED.

Kosciusko County Contributes $15,000 to Red Cross.

Warsaw, Ind., June 28.—Kosciusko county's contribution to the Red Cross will total about $15,000. The county's quota was $10,500. The amounts collected by the various townships were as follows: Clay, including Claypool, $1,133; Lake, including Silver Lake, $550; Harrison and Franklin, including Mentone, $1,454.24; Wayne, including Warsaw and Winona, $4,000; Monroe, $213.50; Tippecanoe, including North Webster, $377.57; Seward, including Burket, $471.90; Prairie, $992; Jefferson, $427.37; Scott, $300; Ellettsburg, $273.90; Jackson, including Sidney, $508.64; Washington, including Piercetown, $500; Turkey Creek, including Syracuse, $1,185.58; Van Buren, including Milford, $1,221; Plain, including Leesburg, $541.

THREATENED TO KILL HIM.

Portland, Ind., June 28.—Worley Myers, a brother-in-law of John Landess and charged jointly with Landess of plotting, last October, to kill Kyle Hale, has been arrested at Utica, O., and is now in jail at Portland. He came back to Indiana without papers. Myers left Redkey on Tuesday of last week, the day before Hale filed the charges against him and Landess. Many of the witnesses who appeared for the state in the Fishback murder trial at Hartford City will be subpoenaed for the trial of Landess and Myers.

TOUCHES A LIVE WIRE.

Huntington, Ind., June 28.—Mis-taking a wire of the Huntington Light & Fuel company for the limb of a tree, Otto Bell brought his hand into contact with the heavily charged wire Tuesday at 6 o'clock when he tried to brush it aside. He was hurled to the sidewalk, his head striking the curb. A big gash was inflicted, but he was not burned and apparently was not greatly affected by the shock from the wire, which carried 2,300 volts.

DEATH OF DENNIS GAY.

Lagrange, Ind., June 28.—After an illness extending for several months, Dennis Gay is dead at his home in Greensfield township. The deceased was forty-five years old. He was a graduate of the Lagrange high school, class of 1890, and was a member of the base ball team organized here about that time, which won the championship of this part of the state. A widow and one son survive.

MARRIAGE LICENSES.

Lagrange, Ind., June 28.—Marriage licenses have been granted to the following: Noah Speicher, of Eden township, and Elizabeth Nelson, of Keokuk; Kenneth G. Mullen, of Prairieville, Mich., and Hazel M. Nevins, Lagrange; Harry L. Gilmore, of Detroit, and Bernice E. Forst, of Stroh.

Mrs. Ronald H. Barlow, who won the first prize at the Merion County Golf club tournament, asked that the prize placed opposite her name be given to the British relief fund.

evening for the benefit of the local auxiliary of the Red Cross society. A remarkable record was made by the local workers in the campaign for Red Cross war funds when they secured the quota twice over and in a single day.

FUND STILL GROWING.

Hartford City, Ind., June 28.—The Red Cross fund is now past the $11,000 mark in Blackford county. Reports made to Red Cross headquarters showed that the fund has gone past that mark and may reach double the original quota for Blackford county, $6,500.

CURRENT FOLLOWS GAS PIPES.

Huntington, Ind., June 28.—Lightning struck the Annex hotel building late Tuesday, shattering the flagstaff. The bolt followed wires and gas pipes in adjoining buildings, treating the employees of the Huntington Herald to an unwelcome display of pyrotechnics.

FUNERAL POSTPONED.

Lagrange, Ind., June 28.—The funeral services of Miss Bertha Floring, which was to have been held yesterday afternoon, was postponed until today so that relatives from a distance might reach here.

DRIVES MILLER FROM HOUSE AT GUN POINT

Intruder Also Gets Heavy Penalty in the City Court.

When Charles Miller, 40, followed a little girl into the home of John Zion, in the rolling mill district, Wednesday afternoon, he made an awful mistake. Mrs. Zion was at home. She produced a large revolver and at the point of the weapon forced Miller to back from the residence and flee wildly.

Mrs. Zion notified the police of Miller's action. The laborer, who has lived alone in a tumble-down shack in the rolling mill district, was arrested by Patrolmen Lininger and Johnson Wednesday evening. He was charged with indecent exposure.

Twelve women and children lined a row of chairs in police court Thursday morning to tell of Miller's conduct. Two little girls said that Miller had followed them. Several witnesses testified that Miller had insulted them.

Mrs. Zion, a large woman, twice threatened Miller with assault when he made statements which she declared were false. Miller was fined $50 and sentenced to fifteen days in jail.

DUTCH QUEEN PENS UP HUSBAND FOR SMUGGLING GERMANS AWAY

QUEEN WILHELMINA OF HOLLAND AND HER GERMAN HUSBAND. Staff Special.

London, England, June 28.—The husband of the queen of Holland is today virtually a prisoner of war. His captors are his wife's own subjects.

All his actions are under surveillance. Many parts of his wife's kingdom are barred against him. All this is because the prince consort, who is a German, violated Dutch neutrality by smuggling three German army officers out of internment camps back to their native land.

The Hollanders, including their queen, fear he will try it again. The prince consort, before his marriage, was Duke Heinrich Vladimir Albert Ernest of Mecklenburg-Schwerin.

The queen met him first while on a visit to the kaiser's palace at Potsdam. The kaiser aspired to see his second son married to the Dutch queen.

The prince consort's Germanic sympathies have been manifested many times since war began.

The smuggling out of the German officers was the final act, compromising the Dutch nation to a point that required drastic action.

Reliable reports describe the smuggling as highly dramatic. The three officers were old-time friends of the consort. Without violating Dutch neutrality they could not leave Holland. They appealed to their old friend, the prince consort. He promised help.

"Meet me at midnight tonight," he told them, naming a secluded spot. There they were met by the prince in his closed automobile.

Quickly the four sped toward the border, lights low and full power on. "Halt!" cried a Dutch sentry as the border was neared.

The prince consort was all indignation.

"Who are you to stop me?" he cried in passionate indignation. "I am your superior officer and the prince consort! Stand back quickly or it will be worse for you! I am on your queen's business!"

The sentry was all apology. He saw none in the car but the prince consort. He feared to halt the royal equipage longer, and allowed it to pass.

Quickly then the big machine sped over the border, discharged its three German officers and sped home.

Not for some days was the secret learned.

Then France and Britain were aroused and made protest to the Holland government. "Something must be done, and this must not happen again." Holland's position was delicate. The protests were diplomatically worded, but they were stern.

So the prince consort has been practically deprived of his liberty.

Queen Wilhelmina is as determined as any there shall be no more such pro-German operations in her country.

Long ago it was reported the queen and her husband were not getting along well together, and it was even said the German husband had slapped his royal wife.

Maybe, the comment runs, the queen finds it pleasant to have such good excuse for giving a twist to the turbulent German temper that was back of that blow long ago.

OUR TROOPS IN FRANCE.

News of the landing of a large part of General Pershing's army in France serves more than anything else so far has done to impress the people of the United States that the country is in the great war. We have had all sorts of testimonies to this by various incidents from the declaration of war itself, early in April, down to the big drive of the present week for recruits to fill up the regulars. Numerous acts of congress, registration for the draft, the Liberty Loan, the Red Cross campaign and all the bustle in one way and another to put the nation in a state of defense have given the people no opportunity to forget that they are at war. But it is the landing of an army on the soil of France that stirs the nation.

The arrival of General Pershing and his staff in Europe, impressive though that was of the fact that an actual entrance into the war had been made, did not impart the thrill that came when the cables brought the news that thousands of regulars had disembarked. The boys are there. More of them soon will be there. The flower of Uncle Sam's small but highly efficient army and the marines—the fore and front marines—are on the soil of France and waiting for the order that shall take them to the firing lines. After the lapse of one hundred and forty years America under the leadership of Pershing is making requital of the debt incurred when France under the leadership of Lafayette joined arms and spirit with the Continentals for freedom in the new world.

Historically, the event is epochal. It marks a new juncture of the free and democratic nations of the world for liberty in all lands, for the safety of great and small, for earth's peace secure. It signifies an abandonment of America's traditional policies and aloofness from the great affairs of international politics, an abandonment as startling as it has been inescapable under the stern compulsions of this world-conflagration in which our own national structure is threatened. We are actually now in the war and face all its portents and meanings.

With that in mind it well befits us and each of us to undertake a full understanding of the duty that rests upon the nation and all of its people. The war must be won. A failure to win it will expose us to perils that cannot be overestimated. The future of our own country, the future of democratic freedom in the earth, depend now upon the way in which this nation, its government and its people shall acquit themselves.

Here as in France and in Great Britain and even as in the land of our foe, there must be complete devotion of spirit, unreserved readiness for all the sacrifices that war can entail upon us. Our soldiers are now at the threshold of battle. We must stand by them and all the hundreds of thousands who are yet to follow them to the firing lines.

We are in the war. Our first army is in France.

KEEPING GOOD FAITH.

The needlessness of a legal or military censorship to muzzle the American press against possibility of serious indiscretions with war news has been once more disclosed in a way that must impress the government and the people in general.

Notwithstanding it had been known in hundreds of newspaper offices that thousands of troops were on their way to France and that the time of their landing was imminent, not a word of it was given publication until the news was authorized in Washington. During the mobilization of the troops on the eastern seaboard for embarkation no account of it was given publicity. The public, though perhaps vaguely suspecting from the known presence of General Pershing in France that troops soon would arrive there, had no knowledge that the army had been assembled and set afloat. There was not even any general knowledge of the mobilization. During recent weeks scores of troop trains passed through this city en route to the east. Those who saw them doubtless suspected what was in the wind. Newspapers here knew of this heavy transportation of troops and were familiar with their destination. No word of it was printed.

The fact that many thousands of soldiers and marines—perhaps more men than Washington ever had at one time under his command—were assembled and disembarked and that supplies in mountainous quantity for so many men were at the same time got together and shipped without any public inkling of all this speaks well for the diligence and system of the war and navy departments, but more for the good faith of the newspapers and news associations that knew it, yet cheerfully and fully acquiesced in the government's request that no publicity be given. No newspaper was under legal restraint to suppress this most interesting news. No press association was under any sort of enforceable obligation not to spread this intelligence far and wide. The moral and patriotic obligation sufficed for all. No legal censorship was needed.

Thenewspapers of the country kept faith with the government and with the national welfare. A considerable army was assembled, put on ships and transported in safety across the Atlantic to France and the public in the interest of the security and success of the expedition was kept in ignorance of it until the murdering gauntlet of the U-boats had been run and it became prudent to tell the people of the country that their boys were treading the heroic soil of France.

So long as the press of the country and the agencies of the press observe the moral restraints of the military situation there can be little patience with proposals to apply the gag. That intervention will keep very well until the need for it shall have been shown.

SATURDAY NIGHT CLOSING.

That there may be no misunderstanding and confusion to the detriment of a worthy movement, The Sentinel desires to correct a statement in a morning paper that may mislead some into a belief that it is proposed to close Fort Wayne's retail stores at noon Saturday. No such an undertaking is afoot. The proposal is to make general, if possible, the closing of retail stores at 6 o'clock in the evening on Saturdays during the months of July and August.

This practice has had some establishment here for two or three years and it is held in favor by many of the merchants. Of course those who subscribe to it make some degree of sacrifice in trade so long as competitors do not join the movement. This year there appears to be a far more general readiness of the downtown merchants to release their sales forces at 6 o'clock Saturday during the sweltering weather of midsummer than ever before and the promise seems good that the arrangement will be made.

There is not and there has not been any design to close the retail stores at noon Saturday. Statement that there is such a purpose is due to a misunderstanding. The jobbing houses long have maintained the practice of closing at noon Saturday during the summer months, but no suggestion ever has been made that the retail establishments do this.

Merchants are numerous signing the agreement for Saturday night closing and it is believed that before the first of July it will be settled that by far the greater part of the downtown stores of almost all classes will have entered the compact to give their employees release from the heat and fatigue of midsummer nights.

The senate seems finally to have got some courage of conviction on the issue of war prohibition. At all events, the agriculture committee of that body has, for it reports to the chamber a modified food control bill in which the president is permitted latitude only for allowing the manufacture of wine. Beer and booze, both of which consume vast quantities of grain, are consigned to the death list. Indiana brewers and distillers should worry—but not for long. The worst to come is near at hand anyway.

Just what sort of a pull the wretch Coe had with the police of New York to enable him to block so much as even a plausible bluff at solving the Ruth Cruger murder mystery can hardly be guessed at, save on the hypothesis that the white slave traffic figures in the tragedy and that to have unraveled the affair would have interfered seriously with business. The promise of a thorough investigation of the police stupidity or worse will be hailed with interest beyond Manhattan.

America's army in France is not large, as armies go in these days, but it is big enough to furnish an ample guarantee of good faith and there are hundreds of thousands of others where those came from. In due time and wholly fit and trim they will arrive where their brothers in arms have led the way. Meanwhile, when the Pershing divisions and the fighting marines get on the move there will be good enough token of America in the war.

We'll strangle the whole push of you up to the oaks

If you will not help us, why darn your eyes!
We will drill you plumb full of gun-holes!

Here is a hint to the Bold Never Sweats—

They're the regular tatterdemalion vets!
Will you fight—or hide in the hay?

Here is a hint to the Sweet Sons of Rest—
(What a brave, scrappy lot they be!)
Will you serve the eagle, and guard her nest,
Or guzzle your booze 'neath her tree?

Here is a hint and a hymn to all tents,
Who live on the fat of the Folk—
It may not agree with your several bents,
But bedad! you will fight or you'll creak!

THE CALL OF THE PARK

By V. M. HATFIELD.

I am spiritless and weary,
And the day is dark and dreary;
Life is just an irritation and a fight:
But I see a silver lining
To the cloud that brings repining,
I am going to the park tonight.

I am longing for the breezes,
And the charming lake that pleases;
For the flow'rs, the winding vistas and the light:
Even now my heart rejoices
At the thought of happy voices
That will greet me when I reach the park tonight.

Life is full of aggravations,
Anxious moments and vexations;
There are days when not a thing is going right:
All this day I've met with trouble,
And my burdens have seemed double,
But I'm going to the park tonight.

Dreams of happiness enfold me!
Fancy's restful arms uphold me!
Gentle zephyrs waft my soul to freedom's height!
Fly, ye labor-ridden hours;
Welcome sweet Elysian bowers;
Welcome joys that wait me at the park tonight.

How the ills of life diminish;
Own defeat, and find their finish,
When the future holds a compensation bright!
So my burdens shall not vex me,
Nor my heavy woes perplex me,
For I'm going to the park tonight.

Let the day bring toil and worry,
Naught can put me in a flurry,
For I've heard it said, "Whatever is, is right;"
But when working hours are ended,
All my troubles will be mended;
I shall find my solace at the park tonight.

GERMAN PATENTS ARE IMPAIRING AMERICAN EFFICIENCY FOR WAR

BY BASIL M. MANLY.

America's efficiency in war, medicine and industry is seriously impeded by existing legal prohibitions on the use of German patents, formulas and processes. German corporations and individuals control patents on a large number of valuable preparations, machines and processes which are badly needed not only in civil life but by our army and navy; but which under existing law we are unable to use without the permission of German representatives and the payment of exorbitant prices to the German titleholders.

The most glaring example of the way in which American lives are endangered by this legalistic prohibition is the case of salvarsan—"606"—the famous remedy for syphilis invented by Dr. Ehrlich, which cannot now be obtained except by the payment of an outrageous price to the American representatives of the German corporation which controls the patent rights and trade marks.

How serious this situation has become is explained by the world famous surgeon, Dr. W. J. Mayo, of Rochester, Minn., whose statement is endorsed by a large number of the greatest physicians in the United States.

"The case of salvarsan—"606"—the try," says Dr. Mayo, "is controlled absolutely, both as regards name and methods of manufacture, by patents owned in Germany and controlled in this country by the Farbwerke-Hoechst Co., of New York, of which one H. A. Metz is president. We believe, and in this I am supported by the entire staff of the Mayo clinic, that the patents on salvarsan in particular should be immediately abrogated by congress."

The price at the present time for one dose of about 9 grains is $4.50. This can be manufactured by our chemists at an estimated cost ranging from 14 to 35 cents.

Salvarsan is, however, only one of hundreds of valuable preparations which the Germans are keeping out of our reach, thanks to our unwarranted observance of patent rights, which the German government openly repudiated within a short time after the beginning of the war. There are enormously valuable formulas for explosives, dyes and chemicals of all kinds, which we need to help us win the war and put our industries on a self-sufficient basis, which the Germans now control.

There are two bills now in congress which deal peace-meal with this situation—one by Senator Nelson which abrogates the German rights for salvarsan, and one by Senator Pomerene which gives the army and navy the right to manufacture or contract for manufacture of any articles controlled by the Germans and leaves the question of compensation to be settled after the war.

What is needed, however, to deal with this situation is a clear-cut bill which will abrogate all German patents, trade-marks and formulas and throw them wide open to the use of Americans.

E. S. Kennedy, a prominent citizen of Pittsburg, was in the city last evening, the guest of Herman Berghoff, who is an intimate friend.

John Foltz, near the east yard, who was quite badly hurt by jumping from a moving engine several days ago, is slowly recovering.

Mr. Babcock has sold his excellent farm near the Orphans' home to the trustees of that institution. The consideration was $8,000. Mr. Babcock will hereafter reside in the city.

Ira B. Chase was nominated for governor by the republicans in convention here. Theodore Shockney, who had sought the nomination, was nominated for lieutenant governor.

The marriage of Miss Rose Redelsheimer, of Monroeville, to Emanuel Strass, of Cleveland, will occur at Standard hall next Wednesday evening at 6 o'clock.

Wednesday morning at 9 o'clock will occur the marriage of Miss Nellie Sullivan and Mr. G. Holloway. The ceremony will be performed at the St. Patrick's church by the Rev. Father Delaney.

E. W. Whitelock was killed in the Harrisburg wreck Saturday morning. His remains arrived over the Nickel Plate at 2 o'clock, and the funeral occurred from the train, the interment being in Lindenwood.

Messrs. Henry C. and William Brooke, the contractors, have just been awarded the contract for the edifice of Plymouth Congregational church, to be situated at the southeast corner of Jefferson and Harrison streets. The work will begin at once. The building will be brick, with stone trimmings, the interior to be of southern pine. The plan is modern and something entirely new in Fort Wayne, making altogether a very handsome building. It will seat 800 people when the Sunday school and other rooms are thrown into one auditorium. The estimated cost of the Plymouth church is close to $20,000.

Uncle Harry Talks About the Red Cross Society and Its Wonderful Work

"Tell us about the Red Cross," said Helen.

"That's quite a big order," said Uncle Harry, "but I'll be glad to do my best to answer your question. In the first place, Red Cross Week has just ended, the week having been fixed by President Wilson for a campaign to raise $100,000,000 to help pay the cost of the hospital relief work for the American soldiers and the non-combatants of the warring countries."

"Did the Red Cross start in the United States?" asked Joe.

"No, indeed," said Uncle Harry, "although much of the finest and most helpful Red Cross work has been done by the American branch. The first Red Cross work was done more than sixty years ago in the southern part of Russia during the Crimean war. Since then Red Cross work has spread to every civilized country in the world—there are Red Cross societies everywhere. And wherever there is a wide spread suffering, whether it is caused by war or an earthquake or a fire or a tidal wave or what not, there you will find Red Cross nurses and Red Cross doctors—so brave and self-sacrificing a lot of women and men as the most daring aeronauts or soldiers."

"Won't you tell us how the Red Cross was started?" asked Jimmy.

"Gladly," said Uncle Harry. "As I said, the first Red Cross work was done more than sixty years ago—to be exact, in 1854. The Crimean war was being fought between Russia, on one side, and Turkey, France and England on the other side. Crimea is a Russian province way down in the southern part of that country, on the Black Sea. The suffering of the soldiers was terrible and the governments of the warring nations didn't seem to be able to meet the situation."

"And a woman named Florence Nightingale?" Helen faltered after starting to speak; she wasn't quite sure whether she was correct.

"That's right," said Uncle Harry. "Florence Nightingale was the name of the woman who started and actually did the first Red Cross work in the history of the world. She was an Italian woman who had become a nurse and was engaged in hospital work in England at the outbreak of Crimean war. When the reports of the suffering of the soldiers in Crimea reached England, Miss Nightingale raised as much money as she could and bought hospital supplies, and then gathered together thirty-four nurses who were willing to volunteer their services, and sailed for Crimea. Most people opposed the whole idea and plan at first, because women had never done work like that before. But Miss Nightingale and her nurses went right ahead and the relief they rendered the wounded and dying soldiers away over there in Russia along the shores of the Black sea, won the undying gratitude of the soldiers. And before the Crimean war was over, made these first Red Cross nurses the most talked of and most popular women in the world."

"I guess Miss Nightingale isn't living now," said Helen.

"No, she died in 1910," said Uncle Harry, "one of the most—if not the most beloved and respected women in the world. She founded a work that has meant life and happiness to millions of people."

"After the Crimean war the Red Cross idea spread to other countries and societies began springing up everywhere. In 1864 there was a convention held at Geneva, Switzerland, at which there were representatives from all the principal countries. The Red Cross was recognized as an international organization and all the governments agreed to respect Red Cross workers at all times as non-combatants. And the Red Cross has grown steadily ever since, until today it is represented in forty different nations."

"The Red Cross is not run by the governments, is it?" asked Joe.

"No, the Red Cross is owned by THE PEOPLE OF THE WORLD," said Uncle Harry. "It is supported by voluntary contributions, and each member pays a small sum a year, and gives as much time as possible to making the various things needed by the doctors and nurses in their work. There are close to 1,000,000 members in the United States today, including men, women, girls and boys; many having joined since the war started, more particularly since the United States entered the war. And ever since 1914, when the first shot was fired Red Cross workers from this country and from every other nation have been in Europe

"HOW I SOLVED RUTH CRUGER MYSTERY," STORY OF A WOMAN DETECTIVE WHO IS NOT A DETECTIVE

"I Went on the Theory That Ruth Was a Good Girl and Not Another Girl Gone Wrong, Which Seemed to Be the Police View," Says Grace Humiston, the Lawyer Sleuth.

By FREDERICK M. KERBY. (Staff Special.)

New York, June 25.—Why did Mrs. Grace Humiston, American woman Sherlock Holmes, solve the great Ruth Cruger murder mystery when New York's most famous sleuths failed?

Because she believed in the innate goodness of girl nature, as opposed to the police theory that most girls who leave home are bad.

When little 18-year-old Ruth Cruger disappeared early in February, after going to the motorcycle repair shop of Alfredo Cocchi in West 127th street, to get her skates sharpened, the New York detective bureau made a perfunctory investigation, winked its cynical eye and said, "Another girl gone wrong!"

Alfredo Cocchi, Who Is Held in Italy for the Murder of Ruth Cruger, to Which He Has Confessed, and Cocchi's Wife and Children.

But when the distracted parents of Ruth Cruger called Mrs. Grace Humiston into the case, she decided almost at once the police were wrong.

"Ruth was a good girl, I soon found out from her school girl friends," said Mrs. Humiston today.

Mrs. Humiston looks anything but the conventional woman lawyer type. Of medium build, with dark hair, tinged with gray, and brown eyes, quietly dressed in a dark purple gown, Mrs. Humiston is just the kind of womanly woman on whom a distracted mother might call for help to find her lost girl.

"In the first place," she said, "there were just four persons working on the case, my secretary, two private detectives and myself. We had utmost confidence in one another. My first inquiries convinced me Ruth had not run away; I felt sure she was a good girl and Cocchi could solve the mystery."

"We eliminated every clue that led outside New York city. I searched morgues, cemeteries and hospitals. I became convinced the girl had been murdered and Cocchi could solve the mystery. We investigated the cellar and found the police search of the place had been superficial."

"When Cocchi was discovered in Italy, I felt my murder theory was right. It became necessary to make a thorough search of the cellar under his workshop. We began that work but were stopped by Mrs. Cocchi. I went to the police and obtained authority to continue the excavation that resulted in finding the body."

Back of this simple story is Mrs. Humiston's genius for detective work. She has, through her law practice an helping the sick and wounded and the men, women and children who have suffered in other ways from the war. Nurses, doctors, ambulance drivers, stretcher bearers, and last but by no means least, the good faithful Red Cross dogs, which have been working valiantly and tirelessly to help the war-stricken people of Europe.

"Now that the United States has entered the war and an American army is going to France, there will be more and more work for the American branch of the Red Cross to do. The society and the government are working together and already a special American Red Cross commission has gone to France to make its plans for the important work that will have to be done while the war continues—and even for a long while after peace is declared. It is a great work, children, and the war is so terrible and is causing such awful suffering that the Red Cross needs and can use all the assistance that everyone can give it."

Editor's Note—Uncle Harry will be glad to answer inquiries, either in this column or by mail, provided letters are signed with the full name and address of the persons writing. The correspondence names will not appear in the articles.

"The New York Central track, is really perfect"

—JOSEPH CARLIER, Assistant Professor of Railway, Liege University, Belgium.

Professor Carlier was recently in this country making an official study of American railways as a model for Belgium.

In an interview in the New York Times he made the statements reproduced herewith concerning the New York Central Lines.

But a railroad, however perfect to-day, will be inadequate to perform its functions to-morrow without constant heavy expenditures of new capital.

Rising prices for fuel, labor, materials and equipment make it imperative that the public and governmental authorities afford fair treatment, and permit compensating rates, in order that it may maintain that stability of credit which is necessary to attract new capital in competition with world-wide international borrowing.

"My trip on the New York Central was made in a splendid new electric locomotive of 2,000 horse power. I have visited many railroad shops in England and have seen many electrifications. I found the working of the New York Central electrification really wonderful. The stability of the locomotive, the working of the engine—I was quite surprised. It was really splendid. I cannot say too much for the motion, in a word, I did not feel any disturbance which would indicate a fault in the track or a wrong conception in the locomotive. The maintenance of the track for the section traveled by me is really perfect, as compared with similar tracks on European railroads. It is not necessary to speak of the terminal. It is a work of genius. It is the only work in the world of its kind. Every one knows that. Is it not so?"

INSTRUCTION IN PHYSICAL CULTURE FOR WOMEN WILL BE GIVEN BY WELL-KNOWN GIRL ATHLETE

Instruction in physical culture for women will be given at intervals on this page by Miss Vera Roehm, a noted girl athlete. These instructions will be of a sort easily pursued at home.

Miss Roehm is a Baltimore girl, a former trained nurse, who afterward became a physical trainer and was a star in an athletic specialty with the "Passing Show."

She has boxed such experts as A. B. Attell, former featherweight champion; Johnny Kilbane, present feather weight champion, and Leach Cross. In her three-round bout with Cross she lost one tooth.

Miss Roehm's recipe for perfect health is threefold — pure air, pure water and physical culture.

"Physical culture is useless without pure air and pure water," she says. "But most girls who practice physical training also breathe pure air and drink pure water."

"If you will observe athletic girls, you will nearly always find the glow of perfect health on their cheeks."

Thursday.

These meetings are important and the women of the several districts are expected to attend them.
The Woman's league of the Wayne Street M. E. church and the parent-teacher club of the Washington school are to have a non-partisan meeting in the church parlors from 2 to 6 o'clock on Friday. All women are invited, and those of the west end particularly are asked to register at the time. Dr. Carrie Banning and Mrs. Warrington are to give talks.

WATCH REFRIGERATOR WHEN TEMPERATURE CLIMBS HIGH
Ice chests and refrigerators need special care during the hot summer months.

Some forms of bacteria thrive at a low temperature and practically all varieties need dampness to aid in their growth. The interior of the ice chest should be wiped every day with a dry cloth. At least once a week everything should be removed so that the sides, shelves and drain may be thoroughly scalded. The water used for this purpose should be actually boiling when it is poured in and the process should be repeated several times.

Ice used for cooling purposes only is not always clean. For this reason food which is not afterward to be cooked should not be brought into direct contact with the ice. Food that is to be eaten raw should be carefully cleaned before being put on the ice and wrapped in clean cloths or inclosed in paper sacks.

A folded paper, or clean cloth should be laid on the floor of a one-compartment ice chest. This will prevent particles of dirt from the ice from clogging the drain. It will also result in a saving of ice.

Portions of canned food should never be put in the ice chest in tins. Empty them into a receptacle.

SEASONS ARE UNKNOWN TO FUR COAT MAKERS.

It appears that fur coats are to know not one season from another. Moths will please take notice; for there will be no scarcity of food. There coats and motor coats composed of pelts are actually on sale, and they are beautiful. Squirrel coats for summer are unreasonable enough, but fancy investing in sable, kolinsky, ermine or chinchilla! Goodbye bank balance.

The kimono sleeve is the accepted cut, and rightly so, since its ample folds do not crush pretty sleeves, and permit the garment to slip on and off comfortably. The movement back gives long lines and permits plenty of spread and sway. As a rule, there are large convertible collars, directive revers and crossed belts.

MAKE BABY NEW DRESS FROM DAD'S OLD SHIRT
A man's discarded soft shirts can be very conveniently made over into little dresses for babies or small children. Shirts seem invariably to wear out at the cuffs or neckband before the body of the garment shows any signs of wear or even becomes faded.

OF THIN PAISLEY SILK.
Attractive wraps for wear over summer evening frocks are of thin printed Paisley silk, unlined and made of a single long strip of the silk dropped in a deep burnoose loop at the back to make a hood.

A golden tassel swings from the hood and incidentally weights the soft silk enough to keep the burnoose in place. A band of velvet ribbon in harmonizing tone outlines the neck opening and front edges of the wrap, which fastens with gold cords ending in tassels.

Checks Are Good Style for Summer

MISS ADELAIDE SEDGWICK.
A checked tub dress worn recently by Miss Adelaide Sedgwick at an informal morning function in New York is an excellent example of the taste for simple frocks which society girls are cultivating.

That a summer frock should appear dainty and cool rather than expensive seems to be the style ideal in many social circles.

HOW TO CAN FOOD WITH THE ORDINARY HOME UTENSILS

Adults and Children Easily Can Put Up Fruits and Vegetables by Method Taught to Canning Clubs in the Northern and Western States.

CAN SURPLUS FOOD BUT USE JARS AND CANS WISELY.

Don't have an empty preserving jar in your home next fall. There may be some difficulty in securing cans and preserving jars.

Reserve regular tight-sealing containers for vegetables, concentrated soups, meats and fish.

Concentrate products so that each jar or can will hold as much food and as little water as possible.

Put up jams, jellies and preserves in glasses sealed with cork or paper and paraffin. Pack fruit juices in ordinary bottles.

Don't can anything that can be kept just as well dried or in other forms. Dry navy and mature Lima beans for winter use.

Produce in your garden lots of cabbage, potatoes and root crops that can be kept for the winter without canning.—United States department of agriculture.

Don't let valuable surplus fruits and vegetables go to waste. Adults and children in a very few hours, with little other home equipment than a wash boiler and cans and jars, can preserve much valuable perishable food for next winter's use.

Succulent vegetables and fruits are important to health the year round. See that your table is supplied.

The simple one-period cold-pack method described is that taught by the United States department of agriculture for the boys and girls of the canning clubs in the northern and western states. With this method thousands of boys and girls each season put up vast quantities of fruits and vegetables.

With this method practically every vegetable and fruit grown in this section can be canned.

The wash-boiler method described below is entirely effective. Those who desire may purchase home-size water-seal, steam pressure or pressure cooker canning outfits which save time and fuel.

Preliminary Preparation for Canning. Provide a false bottom of wooden lattice work, cross pieces of wood, or coarse wire netting for your clean wash boiler or other large, deep vessel to be used for sterilizing.

Fill the vessel with clean water so that boiling water will cover the tops of the jars or cans. Begin heating the water so that it will be boiling violently by the time the containers are packed.

See that all cans or jars are in good condition and absolutely clean. Scald them thoroughly. Use new rubber rings and scald them just before putting them on the jars.

Preparing Fruits and Vegetables. Start with clean hands, clean utensils, and clean, sound, fresh products. Throw out all vegetables and fruits which are withered or unsound. Wash out all grit and dirt. If possible, use only fruits and vegetables picked the same day; and never can peas and corn picked more than five hours.

Prepare fruits and large-sized vegetables for blanching. Remove all spots from apples.

Prepare beans and greens as for cooking. Be especially careful to remove all foreign plants from the greens.

Blanch vegetables and all fruits except berries by laying them from 3 to 5 minutes in clean boiling water.

Remove the blanched products from the boiling water and plunge them quickly into cold water, the colder the better. Take them out immediately and let them drain. Don't let them soak in the cold water.

From this point on, speed is highly important. The blanching vegetables and fruits, which are slightly warm, must not be allowed to remain out of the jars a moment longer than is necessary.

Remove skins when required and as each is pared cut it up into proper size and pack directly into the clean, scalded cans or jars.

Pack as solid as possible, being careful not to bruise or mash soft products.

In the case of fruit, fill the containers at once with boiling hot syrup.

In the case of vegetables, fill the containers with boiling hot water to which a little salt has been added.

Place scalded rubber rings on the glass jars and screw down the tops. Seal tin cans completely. Watch them for leaks. As the preliminary treatment has taken care of expansion it is not necessary to exhaust the cans.

How to Sterilize or Process. Put the jars or cans as soon as possible into boiling water in a wash boiler or into your canning device. Let them process for the time specified in the table, counting from the time the water begins to boil, or the gauge on the canning outfit registers the proper pressure.

Time schedule given is based upon the one quart pack and upon fresh picked products.

When processing fruits in steam pressure canners, not over five pounds of steam pressure should be used.

When processing vegetables and meats do not use over fifteen pounds of pressure.

After processing, remove the containers. Tighten the tops of jars immediately and stand the containers upside down in a cool place, being careful that no draft strikes the hot jars. Watch for leakage and screw covers down tighter when necessary. Store in a cool, dry place, not exposed to freezing temperature.

Use hand labels for cans, being careful not to let the glue get on the can itself as it may cause rust.

From time to time, especially in very hot weather, examine jars and cans, making certain that there are no leaks, swellings or other signs of fermentation.

There will be no spoilage if the directions are followed implicitly and the containers are sealed up tight.

Fruits which are put up with heavy syrups can be kept under cork and paraffin seal. Save all wide-necked bottles, glasses and jars for putting up fruits.

Vegetables, meats and fish, however, cannot be kept safely unless they are hermetically sealed. Reserve regular jars for products that cannot be packed in other ways.

As there may be some difficulty in securing cans and jars, dry or keep in other ways everything that need not be canned.

It Pays to Purchase at

PICKARD'S

"Yes, it pays to purchase one's furniture at Pickard's," said the practical housewife to one of her friends, "it pays handsomely!"

"I was first attracted to Pickard's," she continued, "by something they were advertising at that time. A clerk promptly showed me what I asked for, and although I was given ample opportunity to look at similar pieces at different prices, I didn't have that feeling that they were trying to force me into spending more money."

"And then, I've found that Pickard's have established a reputation for handling good, substantial furniture—and they seem to value that reputation enough so that they won't risk injuring it by selling you something that will not stand the wear and tear. That's worth a whole lot to me! By experience I have learned that I may depend on what ever Pickard's say about the article I am considering. Really, I would recommend that you go to Pickard's for whatever you need in the way of furniture!"

Pershing's Son is General Too

WARREN PERSHING

Staff Special

Omaha, Neb., June 27.—A real general's son is Warren Pershing, 8, son of Maj. Gen. J. J. Pershing, who is living here with his aunt, Miss May Pershing.

Dressed in a suit of regulation olive drab, given him by army officers in Washington, "Gen." Warren Pershing plays war and as son of a general commands a troop of Omaha boys and girls who are proud to serve under him.

"If this war had only waited a couple of years father would have taken me to Europe with him," Warren declared. "If the war lasts long I'll be over there helping him lick the Germans. We'll lick 'em, too."

"If the war doesn't last, I'm going to West Point anyway."

"Gen." Pershing's "regiment" includes four boys and three girls. His "war office" consists of a camp chair brought back from the Pershing Mexican expedition and a military trunk which serves as a desk.

Warren has always lived in a military atmosphere. His aunts, who have raised him since the death of his mother and sisters in the San Francisco fire, use military terms in their conversation and insist on military discipline at home.

When he is not drilling his "troops," Warren works in his war garden.

NEEDED FOR DEFENSE.

Such Will Be Argument to Save C. B. & C. Railroad.

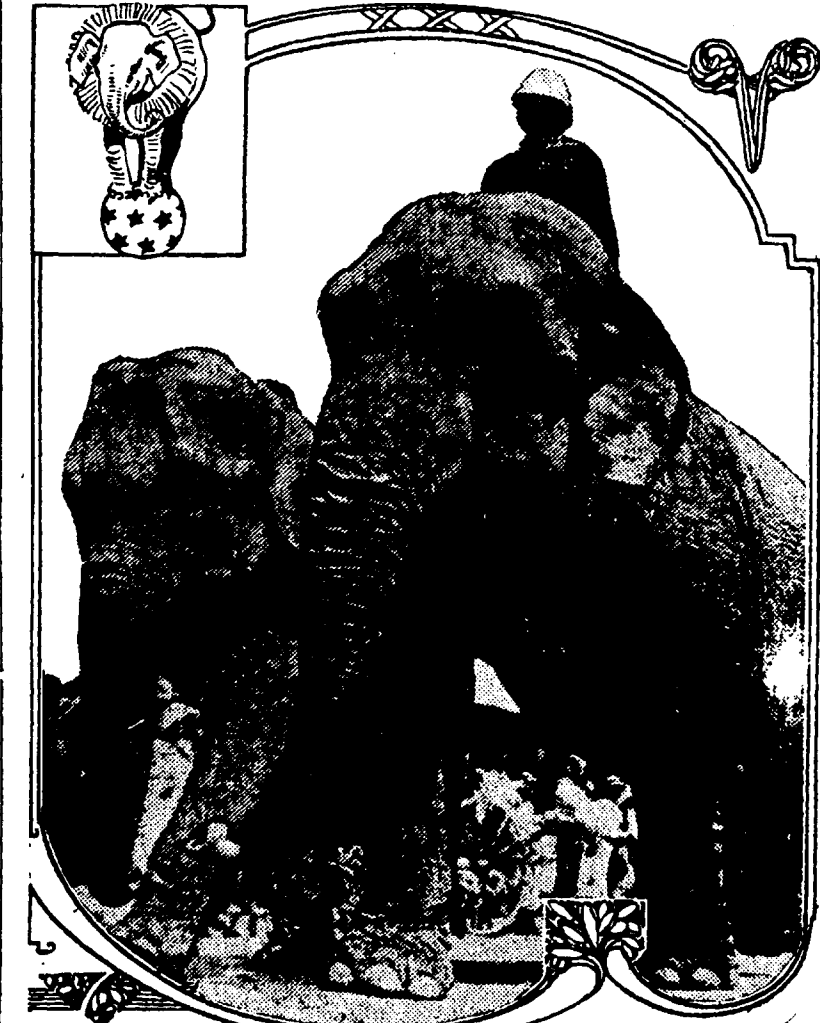

Huntington, Ind., June 28.—Believing that the maintenance of the C. B. & C. railroad during the war emergency is essential, Peter Martin, chairman of the local council of national defense, went to Indianapolis yesterday to take up with the state council of national defense the proposal to keep the road in operation.

The Union Trust & Savings Company of Indianapolis, on behalf of itself and

Frank Jaqua, Portland attorney representing clients, creditors of the road, recently filed with the supreme court a request asking that the Huntington circuit court be mandated to withdraw the road from the hands of J. M. Wilson, present operator, and place the road up for sale without any restrictions. Stripped of its legal phraseology, the suit in effect asks that the circuit court sell the road to junk dealers, who will dismantle the line and dispose of all material as junk.

BIG BINGO IS POTENTATE OF THE ENTIRE CIRCUS ZOO

RINGLAND BROS. GIANT ELEPHANT FROM LATEST PORTRAIT.

Here is an excellent likeness of "Big Bingo." It is from a heretofore unpublished photograph of the elephant that is causing a great deal of discussion among scientists. It is an informal portrait of the giant snapped while he was being taken from the circus trains to the Ringland Brothers' exhibition tent.

Did "Big Bingo" have anything to say about it, he would probably protest against the publication of such a picture for he has previously been photographed only when dressed in one of his many gorgeous robes of plush and silver spangles. The pachyderm making such obvious attempts to keep in step with the giant is one of the largest elephants in America, yet it will be noted that he is a good half-head shorter than "Big Bingo." The trappers who captured "Bingo" in the forests of India state that he is the largest elephant ever seen in southern Asia. The mammoth will be here with Ringland Brothers' circus Thursday, July 12.

When on exhibition "Bingo" occupies a space in the very center of the block-long menagerie tent, which contains more than a thousand wild animals. Since the doors to this department will open a full hour before the commencement of the enchanting fairland spectacle, "Cinderella," and the scenic program in the connecting main tent, there will be ample time to see "Bingo" and all the other wonders of the zoo.

Battery D—Hayes Smith, John Kramer, Arlo Erbe, Clarence Hatfield and Robert Parker, all of Columbia City.

Capt. Thomas Ryan, in charge of recruiting for the United States army here, announced Thursday morning that the signal corps of the regular army was once more open. This branch of the service is found highly desirable by young men and many have tried to get in the signal corps. For a time enlistment in that department was closed, but for about two days it will open again. Capt. Ryan has issued a special invitation to the men who having tried to get in this branch and failed, have not enlisted at all. They will be given the desired opportunity now.

For cable, telegraph and wireless operators, wiremen, electricians, machinists and telephone men the signal corps offers the greatest opportunities of the army. Signal troops are considered generally as far below the need, and advancement is sure to be rapid for those who are willing to do their best.

Hold Noon Meetings.

Meetings were held at the Packard factory and at the S. F. Bower company Thursday noon, at 12:30 o'clock. At the Packard, E. V. Emrick and Sergeant Phinney made the speeches. They were introduced by Albert S. Bond, president of the company. Captain Ryan and Charles M. Niezer talked at the Bower plant. They were introduced by S. B. Great preparations are being made for this.

Police were notified after the cars had been thrown from the track. Traction and Nickel Plate workmen were notified and the cars were returned to the rails.

RESOLUTIONS WILL BE IN ORDER UPON RETURN

Henry Mennewish Sentenced to Penal Farm for Six Months and Fined $10.

New Year's resolutions will be in order when Henry Mennewish comes back to town. He was sentenced to the state penal farm for six months and fined $10 before Judge Eggegan in the circuit court Thursday morning when found guilty of the charge of coining his wife.

Mennewish has served one term before at the penal farm, it was brought out in the trial. He was found guilty at that time for maintaining a house of ill-repute. At this time the court took the three children away and placed them in the Allen county orphan's home.

The crime of which Mennewish was convicted is alleged to have been perpetrated on a Saturday evening at the intersection of Clinton street and the Nickel Plate tracks.

TO PAY $3,390 ALIMONY.

Edward Litchfield Gets Orders from Court in Paying Support Money.

Ellen M. Litchfield was granted a divorce from Edward Litchfield on a cross complaint. The court ordered him to pay $3,390 support money for the five minor children of whom the defendant received the custody. Mr. Litchfield was ordered to pay the support money as follows: The five children and their ages are: Russell, 13½ years; Irma, 11 years; George, eight years; Mildred, four years; Mary, one year. He must pay $35 per month until Russell reaches the age of 15 years; then $28 a month until Irma reaches the age of fifteen years; then $21 until George is fifteen; then $14 until Mildred is fifteen, and then ten dollars until Mary is fifteen.

She died from the injuries received, leaving a husband and three children.

TREW EVERYTHING AT HIM.

Edward Jacobs has brought suit for divorce against his wife, Mary E. Jacobs, whom he says he married in February, 1896. ## MISS OTT IS WELL LIKED

Red Cross Nurse for Home Care of Sick Classes Popular Here.

HAS HAD YEARS OF EXPERIENCE

Auxiliaries of Local Chapter Are Doing Great Work for Cause.

There is no feature of the Red Cross work in Fort Wayne that is making more rapid progress than the classes in the home care of the sick, due largely to the splendid and efficient manner in which these classes are being taught by Miss Frances Ott, expert Red Cross nurse.

A course in hygiene and home care of the sick embraces fifteen lessons, which cover the subjects on proper and sane knowledge of bacteria in the selection of articles which should be in the household medicine chest. Miss Ott, who is the authorized nurse for this work here, instructs women in home sanitation, personal hygiene, care of the house, bedding and bed making, home nursing and symptoms of common diseases. In addition to hearing lectures of the class studies the Red Cross text book, which is decidedly helpful.

This work should be especially appealing to mothers. While not a war medium, it is one of the big features of Red Cross and something in which every woman should be interested. Those desiring to enroll are requested to report to Mrs. A. L. Johns, chairman of the woman's committee of the Fort Wayne chapter, who will see that they are listed for class work.

Response to the call of humanity coming through the Red Cross society has been most generous. Churches, auxiliaries and private citizens are combining to help in the work. The total number of new members at the headquarters Wednesday reached the one hundred mark and more are coming in voluntarily every day. Benefits are being held nearly every day to help swell the fund that is to be used in this worthy cause.

Auxiliaries at Work. Auxiliaries of the Fort Wayne chapter are working hard in the cause of the Red Cross. Over one hundred new members were recruited at Geneva and fifty at Berne. All the auxiliaries are turning in fine supplies.

Large classes have been the rule at the headquarters. The classes in hospital supplies are doing splendid work. Academy girls of the Cathedral are responding to the call of the Red Cross work and will have their first meeting Friday. Reports from the "living picture" benefit performance, given under the direction of Homer P. Davison, show that the local chapter will be added greatly from that source, the proceeds running well over $100. A musical program is to be given in Moose hall Thursday evening for the benefit of the Red Cross.

H. R. FREEMAN HAS SUDDEN SICKNESS

Henry R. Freeman, cashier of the First and Hamilton National bank, was taken suddenly ill Thursday noon while at work in the bank. He lost consciousness and was removed to his home in an ambulance. Mr. Freeman has been ailing for some time with stomach trouble, and has been at various hospitals and sanitariums seeking relief.

Mr. Freeman was reported to be resting easier at his home Thursday afternoon.

CANNING LECTURE.

Canning lectures are causing interest to increase each day. Thursday demonstrations were given at the Bethany Presbyterian church and at James H. Smart school, with Miss Beazoy and Mrs. Edson in charge.

WILL LEAD BOYS AWAY

Lieutenant Luther Mertz Will Command Battery D When It Leaves.

CAPTAIN M. DAWSON MAKES BRIEF VISIT

Artillery Organization to Take 200 Men With It to Ft. Harrison.

First Lieutenant Luther Mertz will be in command of Battery D upon its departure from the city to Fort Benjamin Harrison. Captain Mark A. Dawson, who has been named by the adjutant general as captain of the local organization, came to Fort Wayne, Wednesday, but left again Thursday after looking over the equipment of the battery.

He ordered Lieutenant Luther Mertz to lead the organization when the orders are received to report at the state's mobilization camp. It is the common belief that the orders to report will not come before the first of next week.

Mobilization of all the men is being pushed hurriedly, however, and Lieutenant Mertz has received telegrams from all the neighboring states that the members will come at once.

In order to prepare for any emergency in the event some of the members are discharged, the battery is expecting to take at least 200 men. War strength only requires 190 men and five officers.

Recruiting has taken on more life and a visit to Columbia City, Wednesday, portended five more recruits. At least six men filed application for membership at the armory on State street Thursday morning, but had not passed the examination late in the day.

Meals at Hof Brau.

The members of the battery who have reported and who do not reside in the city are taking their meals at the Hof Brau. The members of the organization who reside in Fort Wayne are being given permission to take their meals at home and also sleep there.

Are Not Satisfied.

Members of the organization which has been ordered to mobilize are not satisfied and some say that the condition will not change unless another man is made captain of the unit. They still insist that Lieutenant Luther Mertz be made captain. It is stated that during the short visit of Captain Dawson to the city, Wednesday and Thursday, that a large number of the battery members refused and would not salute him. It is further said he made no complaint.

MEDICAL MAN HERE TO EXAMINE RECRUITS

Lieutenant J. D. Nussbaum, of the medical department of Indiana, arrived in the city Thursday for the purpose of examining recruits of the various local units of the Indiana National Guard. All members who have not been examined are requested to report at the court house at once.

The establishments under the control of the ministry of munitions of Great Britain on January 31 numbered 4,715.

GIRLS AGREE TO ASSIST

Captain Kilbourne Authorizes Marguerite Muller to Form Committee.

WILL HELP IN CLERICAL WORK

Examining Board Making Big Effort to Secure Men for Second Camp.

Capt. E. H. Kilbourne, chairman of the Military Training Camp Association of Northern Indiana, has authorized Miss Marguerite Muller to form a ladies' organization to assist in the application for the second camp of the Officers' Reserve Corps. Miss Muller will meet with her committee at 7 o'clock Friday evening at the Commercial club. The young ladies will assist in the clerical work of Captain Kilbourne's committee.

An important meeting of the examining board was held at the Commercial club Wednesday night, at which time arrangements were made for the work of the remainder of the period for receiving applicants for the second training camp to be held at Fort Benjamin Harrison. Not enough mature men have filed their names, and the local board will make a strenuous effort during the remaining time to urge men with the necessary qualifications to come forth. It is realized that men of the age wanted by the government just now would be coming forth entirely voluntarily, as they would naturally be above the draft age. The quota for Indiana for the second camp is not as high as for the previous one, however, and it is thought that this state will contribute her share of suitable men for the second reserve camp.

The committee that receives applications is meeting at the Commercial club each day at 1 o'clock at noon and at 7:30 o'clock in the evenings. Men who had applications in for the first camp are required to make out new blanks for the second and present their three letters of recommendation. This camp opens August 27 and the last day on which applications will be accepted is July 15.

No Skirt to Bother English "Milkmaid"

Comfort first is the decision of this English "milkmaid," who is taking the place of a man during war. Trousers, blouse and puttees do not hamper her, as skirts do, in her work.

FANTASIA TO EMBODY SPIRIT OF CIVIL WAR

Music Will Characterize Life of "Dark Days" and Glory of Union.

The wild glory of war and the splendor of victory will be vividly portrayed in the tone color of a grand fantasia, entitled "The Civil War," to be rendered by the Elks' band as the closing number of the municipal concert at McCulloch's park, Friday evening.

The martial symphony, dedicated by Tobani to the Grand Army of the Republic, will carry those who hear it through the spirit of all those "dark days" when the storm of cannon gathered and broke in a shower of blood. It will sound the calls of camp life and the confusions of the charge and death grapple of the battle fields. The characterizing music will blend into the milder strains of dawning peace and will proclaim at the end the glory of a lasting union, ending with the hallowed hymn of "The Star Spangled Banner."

The entire program Friday evening, is planned to be one of the best ever given in the form of an open air concert. John L. Verweire, director, has spent much time in preparing the well trained Elks' band for the entertainment.

The Belgian patriotic fantasia, introducing the hymns of that land in the sixteenth century, will be another stirring number of the concert. The complete program follows:

March, "The Pathfinder of Panama" ..... Sousa
Selection from "Katinka" ..... R. Riml
Belgian Patriotic Fantasia ..... Van Hersele
Song from "Poor Butterfly" ..... Remberg
Hawaiian Selection ..... M. Lake
Grand Fantasia, "The Civil War" ..... Tobani
Respectfully dedicated to the Grand Army of the Republic.

COMPLAINS OF MISTREATMENT

"Sammy" Koehler Says Parents Have Not Given Him Fair Showing.

HAS NOT SKIPPED AS WAS REPORTED

His Aunt Emma Wants to Know What Reasons He Could Have to Go.

John W. H. Koehler, better known as "Sammy," has not skipped town and his bail was reported Thursday morning. It was known for a certainty that he was still in the city at 1 o'clock Thursday afternoon.

"Sammy" is beginning to show the effect of restless nights which presumably have been brought on by worry over what still lies before him. He was seen Thursday morning and complained that the newspapers have been unfair to him and have mistreated him by the stories which have been published.

As is his nature when asked about his bail of $3,000 furnished by his aunt, Emma Koehler and his brother, Mike Koehler, he answered in such strong language that only a few words could be extracted for print. At any rate he thought the idea was preposterous and outrageous, and besides it was nobody's business, he said.

Hunted by Reporters. Reporters began a search for "Sammy" Thursday morning immediately after the false report was received that he had gone. He was located by a Sentinel representative in Judge Samuel M. Hench's office at 10:30 o'clock. Judge Hench is his attorney.

His aunt, Emma Koehler, was called by telephone and asked where "Sammy" was. She said she didn't know. The conversation was directed towards the story that "Sammy" was gone. She then said she wished someone would tell her what reasons "Sammy" could have for wanting to get away. No information could be gotten just why "Sammy" deeded over $3,000 worth of property to his aunt.

Saw Judge Eichhorn. As soon as Prosecutor Frank Emrick was informed by a Sentinel reporter Wednesday morning that "Sammy" had deeded over some property to his aunt who had gone his bail for appearance Saturday afternoon at 3 o'clock, he proceeded to Hartford City to see Judge W. H. Eichhorn, who sat on the bench during the progress of the trial when "Sammy" was found guilty by a jury. The judge would not raise the bond he said until he had consulted Judge Hench.

Seen on Leesburg Road. Wednesday evening a report was received in Fort Wayne that Koehler was seen going from the city in an automobile on the Leesburg road. This is what started the rumor of his reported flight. Another rumor which cannot be substantiated is that "Sammy" had a woman with him. Immediately, somebody started the story that the second party in the machine was Inogene Myers. This is believed to be false.

market all foods delivered in the city. The state school is following up the production effort of Purdue university by a movement to save all the food possible. The mayor will tell about how many gardens there are in the city and how he expects the surplus to be marketed.

BEWARE OF PLANTAIN.

City health officers join with other physicians over the state in warning the public not to carry the food conservation program to include the home-ly rhubarb leaf. The big leaves contain a deadly poison of the poisonous chemical, oxalic acid.

Certain magazines had carried stories to the effect that rhubarb leaves might be used for greens instead of spinach, as a method of cutting down food prices. Several persons in the eastern states who tried the scheme were killed by oxalic acid.

Dr. H. O. Brugman, head of the health board, has told the men of the department to warn citizens against making use of the poison rhubarb leaves. The stocks of rhubarb are nutritious, however. The presence of oxalic acid in the base of the plant is not marked.

Tells How One Town Is "DOING ITS BIT" By Planting Huge Garden

AGRICULTURAL STUDENTS OF CLEBURNE, TEXAS, HIGH SCHOOL AT WORK IN GARDEN

Farmers Who Formerly Wanted to See the "Professor Plow," Now Come to Him for Instruction

BY BERTHA G. SCHMIDT.

the cost of living, and in so doing are setting an example for other cities which is attracting national-wide attention.

Public schools and women's clubs are co-operating in the work. This year the high school students will cultivate thirty-five acres of ground, and through the combined activities of the Civic League, the superintendent of schools and the instructor in agriculture, every vacant lot and back yard will become a garden spot.

"Every city should have more gardens," said W. C. Homeyer, professor of agriculture in the Cleburne High School. "People are complaining about the high cost of living, paying an exorbitant price for vegetables, and, meantime, the soil in their back yards is standing idle, whereas it might as well be bringing them in a money return and profitable hours spent in beneficial exercise, breathing fresh air, and in the keen joy of seeing the blade and the plant increase in growth from day to day."

Prepare by Raising Food.

"We should put forth all our efforts to grow as much foodstuff as possible. The war will demand a greater supply of eatables, many of our agricultural employees will be taken away, and we should lend a hand in the campaign of preparedness by keeping up the food supply, especially since we are trying to help feed other nations. We will be producing less and using more. This, of course, will have a tendency to increase prices even above what they are at the present time. A man who helps to produce food is showing his loyalty to his country. It is up to those who stay at home to feed the army."

Cleburne's preparedness policy is no wild sensation of the moment. It is backed up by five years of experience along this line in the public schools and three of constant effort among the women workers through the Civic League.

Emmett Brown, superintendent of public schools in Cleburne, was the first enthusiast for agricultural work. Practical agriculture was begun in 1911 with a few vacant lots as the laboratory grounds, and with W. E. Ownby, head of the science department, as instructor. Interest in agriculture grew so rapidly that, two years ago, W. C. Homeyer was employed to take complete charge of the agricultural department.

Thirty-Five Acres in Garden.

Last year the school had only eight acres under cultivation. This year twenty-seven more have been added. It will be necessary to plant this newly acquired land in cotton because of soil conditions, but Homeyer favors the growing of foodstuffs wherever the soil has been broken.

The school will have an acre of corn, chiefly for roasting ears; one and a half acres each of Sudan grass and sorghum and an acre of peanuts for the mules; nearly an acre of potatoes; three-fourths of an acre of cabbages and tomatoes and a fourth acre of black-eyed peas.

Besides these thirty-four acres belonging to the school, there are forty-nine gardens—that is, individual plots. Practically all the vegetables common to this community are grown in rotation by the pupils on these plots. They include radishes, lettuce, beets, turnips, spinach, parsley, English peas, beans, potatoes, cabbages, tomatoes, peppers, black-eyed peas, okra, carrots, cucumbers and onions.

Thirty boys and twenty girls are enrolled for the course in agriculture. Many of the girls never handled a hoe or spade before, but they have become as skillful with these implements as with tennis racket or hockey stick. In fact, when you see a brigade of them walking to the vacant lots after school you might at first mistake them for lovers of these sports, but their after-school hours are spent in weeding gardens and exclaiming in delight over the growth of stalk or its fruit.

Students Furnish Seeds.

The students furnish the seeds and plants for their individual plots. The result of the school work is that many of the boys and girls have plots of their own the following year. At present only one year's work is offered in agriculture, but when the new building is erected the course will be increased to two years.

The proceeds from the school gardens amount to between $400 and $500 a year. So far, they have nearly all gone toward the equipment, consisting of two teams of mules, a wagon, mowing machine, cultivator, disc and all the other necessary implements.

Each student in the agricultural class prepares and cultivates a plot of 45 square yards. The income from these plots, averaging $4.50, goes to the students. Prizes are given for the best gardens, variety being taken into consideration, as well as the absence of weeds, straight rows and stand. Virtually all the work on the field crops is also done by the students.

Homeyer is employed for twelve months of the year and believes that much of the success of his department is due to this fact. Some of the boys assist him throughout the summer and thereby reduce the amount of field work necessary for them to do during the winter.

Also Helps Farmers.

Homeyer's duties are not limited to teaching agriculture to the boys and girls. When the department was first added to the school, farmers came to "see the professor plow." Now they come to seek help.

By means of a small laboratory cotton gin special selected seed is ginned for the farmers. Many of the school patrons are taking advantage of a tester and are determining the per cent of butterfat in milk, thereby learning if their cows are paying her board.

The looks of many a tree and rose bush have been changed by proper pruning. Homeyer receiving special requests to work over trees that seemed sick. He also assists in the ward schools, often giving lectures at chapel period.

Mothers' clubs of the schools are co-operating in the work of the agricultural department in the organization of canning clubs.

"If we are going to grow more foodstuff we certainly ought to preserve a part of it for winter use," said Homeyer. "Too many of us do not realize the benefit of vegetables in the winter diet. When meat is so high it is well, too, not to overlook the value of such vegetables as beans, peas and lentils, which are rich in proteins."

Further incentive for garden plots will be given this spring by the Civic League. The league will offer prizes for the best gardens, a fund for which is being raised by means of weekly teas, which all women with civic pride are urged to attend. And Cleburne is not lacking in women with civic pride.

The guiding spirit in this work is Mrs. Florence C. Floore, state chairman of the Texas Federation of Women's Clubs. She is receiving co-operation in the garden plan because she has been behind the movement for a cleaner, more beautiful Cleburne for three years. Helping to make Cleburne a better city is more than Mrs. Floore's avocation—it is her vocation. She is devoting her time, her thought and her money to this purpose.

Studies Civic Improvement.

"The greatest danger which besets women's work is ignorance," she says. "Frequently the enthusiasm of women runs away with their judgment, and both time and money are wasted because the work is not wisely planned. For, as George Eliot's Mrs. Poyser, that most practical of housekeepers, used to say: 'I'm not denying that women are foolish; the Lord Almighty made them to match the men.'"

Feeling that the need of club women is a knowledge of the fundamentals of civic improvement, Mrs. Floore studied six weeks at Chautauqua last summer under Mabel Hill of Wellesley and under Scott Nearing. She also had a number of conferences with Clinton Rodgers Woodruff, editor of the National Municipal Review, at Philadelphia, and secretary of the National Municipal League; with Frederick Howe, United States commissioner at Ellis Island; with George Ford, city planning man for New York, and with Harold and Edgar Buttenheim, editors of the American City. Then she conferred with Miss Mary E. Gearing, head of economics of Texas University. In order that the clubs might have a working plan, Miss Gearing prepared a questionnaire on civic survey. This survey includes health protection, civic beauty, waste disposal, water, streets and sidewalks, parks and playgrounds. Under each heading is a set of simple questions, answers

CHAIRMAN OF TEXAS FEDERATION OF

to many of which can be obtained from the town authorities.

"Know Your Town" Slogan.

Mrs. Floore had these questionnaires made at her own expense. A copy is to be sent to each woman's club in the state doing civic work. Since October ten towns have completed surveys and ten others are now making them. The results of these surveys are to be sent to the capital and tabulated that prospective settlers can find out the inducements offered by these towns.

"Know your town," is the slogan adopted by the Civic League. In order to gain co-operation Mrs. Floore enlisted the help of the newspapers. When the survey was begun everyone knew its purpose and, with the assistance of capable women, the necessary information was soon gleaned.

"In any reform movement, the best place to start is with the children," said Mrs. Floore. "You know someone has said that 'One former is worth a dozen reformers.'"

"Children love to be useful. They can do a great deal in beautifying and cleaning up a city."

"Last year $75 was given in prizes for the most beautiful yards; this year, because of the war, prizes will be offered for the best vegetable gardens. The co-operation of the children will be sought also in the elimination of flies and mosquitoes. Whether we shall offer prizes for the latter is doubtful. Boys are very ingenious. I have seen one instance of where they bred flies in decaying meat in order to kill them for presentation in the contest."

AN ELEPHANT'S REVENGE

IT IS generally maintained by travelers that Ceylon elephants are without tusk as a rule, and as good an authority as Sir Samuel Baker states that not more than one in 300 elephants is provided with them. This must be a mistake, as a well-known traveler has given an account of an adventure with Ceylon elephants that contradicts this theory. We give the story in the traveler's own words:

"A high stand had been erected on one side of the kraal to enable those at the scene to view the noosing of the elephants after they had been driven into the inclosure. This stand was handsomely decorated, carpeted and furnished with seats."

"All were enjoying the excitement and grand sight of the intelligence displayed by the tame elephants in breaking down the underwood and trees that obstructed the view, and which had been left standing in order to hide the scaffolding from the wild animals until they had been safely kraaled. One huge tusker in particular worked with a will and seemed determined to do the lion's share of the work. Everything went down before him."

"Things were in this state, and the tusker was working away steadily about 10 yards from the stand, when the mahout dropped his spear. He desired his assistant to slip off and bring it around behind the animal from the left to the right side and hand it up."

"The man dropped off, picked up the spear, but instead of doing what he was told, stepped forward to the creature's head on the left side and handed it up."

"The moment he did so the animal turned sharp half round and gave the man a butt with the upper part of the trunk, which was rolled up. He gave one cry and went over like a nine-pin."

"In an instant the elephant was on his knees over the man, at whom he made a heavy lunge with both tusks. When he raised his head there was but one tusk; the other had been broken off short and was left firmly imbedded in the ground. Again, instantly, another lunge, and so came the one tusk covered with blood; again another heavy lunge, and then he rose proudly, flourished his trunk and trumpeted a wild pean. It was the old story."

"On inquiry it appeared that the dead man had been in the habit of treating the creature with cruelty, and that twice previously during the week had that elephant attempted the man's life, but had been foiled. The third time he saw his opportunity, and seized it on the instant."

"The moment the affair was over, before the elephant had time to wink, he was hustled out of the inclosure by the mahout and securely fastened by four very powerful chains, one to each leg, to separate trees."

"In half an hour he was perfectly mad and unapproachable even by his keepers, and remained so for a month. Had the driver not repented time to recover his thoughts, he would have become unmanageable, have infected the other tame elephants, one or two of which were already in much the same state, these would have broken loose, joined the wild ones—twenty-two in number—and the inclosure would certainly not have held them."

"The consequences would have been very serious. Infuriated elephants, together with comparatively harmless but terrified ones, would have been rushing all over a town made of leaves and twigs, with 5000 people crowded together, and hundreds of horses and cattle."

"One word more about the tuskers. Ceylon, as a rule, does not breed tuskers, but there are some, and very fine ones, too. The elephants which were at the kraal just spoken of were collected from all parts of the island, and were nearly all tuskers of the finest quality. Old Walila, 10 feet high, carried his noble tusks and nose so high in the air that a well-grown man could walk under them easily."

POND LILY TRAIN IS RESTORED TO SERVICE

Will Make Semi-Weekly Trips Between Ft. Wayne and Rome City.

At the earnest solicitation of the Rome City cottagers, the Grand Rapids & Indiana Railroad company has consented to run the "pond lily" to the resort on a semi-weekly schedule. The days on which the service will be given is only decided in part. Some of the cottagers want Monday and Wednesday for the return trip and others want Monday and Thursday. As soon as they definitely decide upon the mid-week trip of the train, the schedule will be definitely fixed. It is settled, however, that Monday will be one of the days, the train leaving the lake at the same hour it did last year. The first trip from the lake will be made next Monday morning, July 2, when it is hoped to be able to announce the day for the mid-week trip.

CONGRATULATED COUPLE.

Mr. and Mrs. Williams Receive an Unexpected Honor.

An incident of the wedding of Mr. and Mrs. John Williams not planned by the couple was an informal reception on Lafayette street, in front of the Pennsylvania blacksmith shop, where the employees surrounded the bride and groom after they had refused to alight and visit the shops. While some of the men talked to the bride and groom others decorated the rear and sides of the cab with old shoes and "sich." Charles Szink, a shopmate of the groom, was driver on the carriage and the reception is believed to be a "frame up" by him. However, it was enjoyed by all and possibly more so by the shopmen. Mr. and Mrs. Williams were en route from the church to a photograph gallery when the incident at the shops occurred.

HUNDREDS AT GARRETT.

Went in Autos and on the Traction Line.

The rain and generally disagreeable weather of the early part of the day kept many people from going to Garrett to attend the firemen's tournament today, but despite the weather conditions, several hundred people went there. Many more will go later to take in the band concert and free exhibitions that will be given after supper. The attendance at the tournament is the largest in the history of the association, it is said, and the program is one of the best. The lateness of the hour at which the events take place prevents The Sentinel from giving the result of the contests today.

NEW TIME CARD SUNDAY.

Pennsylvania Will Make Change in Three Trains.

The new time card of the Pennsylvania, which becomes effective next Sunday, will not very greatly differ from the present excellent schedule. The change will affect only three trains. No. 49, due at 3:25 a. m., will show on the card as coming in forty-five minutes later; No. 111, coming in at 8:40 p. m., will be ten minutes earlier; and No. 136, due at 2:55 a. m., will be five minutes earlier. People who contemplate a trip over the Pennsylvania will do well to bear in mind these changes, particularly of the time of trains 111 and 136, lest they get left.

LAUGHABLE FEATURE OF ELECTRO-TECHNIC FIELD MEET

The accompanying picture will recall to memory the most laughable of the events on the program of the Electro-Technic field meet at Swinney park last Saturday afternoon—the rooster race. It represents the winners and their drivers, the latter being, reading from right to left, M. S. Willson, August Kayser and A. L. Hadley, who hold responsible positions with the General Electric company. There were six roosters in this race, each attached to a six or eight-foot string and the "scheme" was to drive or "shoo" them over a fifty-foot course, the first three arriving at the home base to be declared the winners. Messrs. Willson, Kayser and Hadley had comparatively little difficulty in "driving" their birds over the course, it being accomplished in ten minutes. F. S. Hunting, E. A. Barnes and William Martin were less fortunate. Mr. Hunting's rooster laid down within ten feet of the goal and absolutely refused to move. The birds driven by Mr. Barnes and Mr. Martin failed to get a correct idea of what was expected from them and, being of the game variety, they got into a fight, which did not end until the three shown in the picture reached the home base and were declared winners. This race not only created a vast amount of amusement, but it demonstrated the tactical attributes of the men who, a part of the time at least, were back of the roosters. They would make good generals.

HAD FINGER BADLY HURT.

While in the Pennsylvania toolroom yesterday morning H. T. Adams, an apprentice on the last stretch of the apprenticeship term, inadvertently laid his right hand upon a planer which was in operation and the index finger was caught in the machinery and stripped of flesh from the first joint. The young man was taken to the hospital, where Dr. VanSwearingen attended him. The bone of the finger was not injured and amputation was not necessary, but it will be several weeks before the wounded finger will recover. Mr. Adams is employed in another part of the shop than that in which the accident occurred.

GONE TO VISIT OLD HOME.

Passengers on Wabash train No. 1 which left the city at 11:20 today, were Mr. and Mrs. William McGrath and sons, Harmon and Edward McGrath. They are bound for Urbana, Ill., which was their home once. Mr. McGrath is a machinist and before he came to Fort Wayne to work in the Pennsylvania shops, he resided in Urbana and was employed for five years in the shop of the Big Four company in that city. At present he is a gang foreman in the Pennsylvania erecting shop. Mrs. McGrath's parents reside in Urbana and they go there to visit them.

SUNSET LEAGUE GAMES.

The Sunset league of the General Electric works has two games this evening at the close of working hours at the shop. The "All Stars" of the dynamo assembling department, and the ice machine makers will play at Lawton park and the apparatus boys and the toolmakers will play at Foster park. Interest in the league is growing and each game is being pulled off before a big crowd of spectators.

TOOK POSITION AT BOWSER'S.

R. E. Gilchrist, a clerk in the Pennsylvania round house for a year or more, resigned this morning to take employment with S. F. Bowser & Co. He will work in the machine department.

INDUSTRIAL NOTES.

Gang Foreman Frank Burns, of the Pennsylvania round house, is sick and unable to work. Charles Scoville, Wabash electrician went to Toledo on business this morning.

Carl F. Miller, a clerk in the Pennsylvania round house office, is on duty again after a four or five days' illness. R. J. Fisher is in Pittsburgh on business for the Bass Foundry and Machine company.

Bob Koehlinger, employed for some time as a helper in the day force at the Pennsylvania tool room, has been transferred to the night force and promoted to operator of a drill press.

Mrs. Armour Romary, of 1430 Stophlet street, is in the St. Joseph hospital for an operation. Mrs. Romary's husband is a machinist under Foreman W. Wehrs at the General Electric works.

L. E. Lohr, a machinist, and Joseph E. McLaughlin, a helper, are new men at the Pennsylvania machine shop. McLaughlin is a young fellow who completed his school term this month.

H. Rohrbach, of the Pennsylvania erecting shop, is off on a vacation. He went to Rome City this morning and a few days later will go to Clear Lake to stay several days. He is an ardent lover of piscatorial pleasures.

WOMEN TAKE UP MEN'S WORK

Two Protect Crossings and Six at Nickel Plate Shops.

WAR IS GIVEN AS THE CAUSE All Agree That the Hours Are Long But They Don't Mind.

The Nickel Plate is carrying out its announcement that it would give employment to women in the shops, offices, at street crossings and in other positions heretofore open only to men. There are two women acting as crossing watchers in the city—at Clay and at Ewing streets.

At Clay street, Mrs. Nora Walker, a widow, presides and is most attentive to her duty. She began work Tuesday morning and says she is pleased with it. When reminded that the hours—from 6 a. m. to 10 p. m.—were a good many for a woman to serve each day, she remarked, "Yes, the hours are long, but the work is easy. You know there is always some objectionable feature to every position. I worked many years in the factory and I like this work better," and as she quit talking she took up her signal flag and walked to the middle of the street to guard the crossing. A freight train was approaching from the east. Mrs. Walker was employed for some time in one of the big city laundries and later at the Knitting mills.

The lady who has charge of the Ewing street crossing also worked at the Knitting mills, silk department, and she likes her job better than factory work. She does not have as many hours as does Mrs. Walker, for the Ewing street crossing is protected by watcher only between the hours of 6 a. m. and 6 p. m.

M. J. Meldrum, general foreman at the round house and shops, has increased the number of female help there to six. One works in the oil house and the other five are engine wipers and round house workers. The war is causing a scarcity of men and the employment of women to take their places has become necessary. The women are receiving men's wages.

ALLOW VETERANS TO REGISTER FOR VOTE

Matter of Eligibility is Shifted to Clerks of Precincts.

The election board has ruled that veterans of the civil war and of the Spanish-American war are eligible to register for city election, regardless of their naturalization standing. The new edict comes as the result of a civil suit threatened by Paul J. Reiman, 2723 Bowser avenue, a Spanish-American war veteran. Reiman claims that his war service makes him eligible for the ballot, although he was born in Germany and his father had secured only his first naturalization papers. Reiman threatened a damage suit unless allowed to register. He said he had consulted an attorney and was sure that there were grounds for action.

Civil and Spanish-American war veterans have been refused the opportunity of registering so far this year. The board held that war service did not establish citizenship. Certain attorneys hold that war veterans have always been allowed to vote and that their service to the country shows their loyalty.

Reiman holds the honor of being the first unnaturalized citizen to register for the city vote. His right to cast a ballot may be challenged by the precinct election clerks. The election board has shifted the responsibility to those who will be in authority at the polling places election day. Much confusion may result, a registration clerk admitted Thursday.

There are more than twenty-five civil war veterans who have not been naturalized and who were refused registration rights this spring. These men are now expected to sign for the ballot right. There are thought to be about sixty Spanish-American war veterans who are not fully naturalized and who may try to vote under the new ruling.

GERMAN MINISTER TO BRAZIL ON WAY HOME

New York, June 28.—Do. Adolph Paul, former German minister to Brazil, and W. von Sander, who prior to the break in diplomatic relations, was minister to Bolivia, arrived here today on a Dutch steamship from South American ports. The two officials were accompanied by thirty-six German consular officers and attaches from the two countries and will continue on the same ship to Amsterdam to which port they have been granted safe conduct by Great Britain and allied nations.

Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Wohler, and Henry Wohler, of Lansing, Mich., who had been the guests of Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Kreckman, 918 University street, motored back to their home, taking with them Miss Dorothy Kreckman who expects to remain a fortnight. With the party also went Harry Wohler, who has been visiting in the city since the close of the theological seminary of St. Louis, Mo.

HAMILTON AVENUE, SOUTH SIDE, IS CENTER OF NEW RESIDENCE NEIGHBORHOOD

View of Hamilton Avenue Looking Toward Hanna Street in Weissner Park Addition.

A large corps of workmen are busy this week paving Hamilton avenue, the central thoroughfare in Weissner Park addition, which will be opened for the sale of lots. The above photograph, made this week by Standish, is a view looking toward the Hanna street entrance to Weissner Park addition, showing two of the new houses in the addition. The L. F. Curdes Realty company, which is developing the tract, is giving to buyers of lots the very best public improvements. Many are attracted to the place this week, especially the men employed in the shops and factories of the southeastern portion of the city.

SAYS COAL OPERATORS OVERLOOKED A BET

For Some Reason Bunker Coal Price in 1916 Lower Than in 1915.

New York, June 28.—A letter stating that "through the foolishness of some of the operators," the bunker coal price in 1916 was lower than the 1915 prices, whereas it ought to have been higher," was introduced by the government today in the trial of operators and corporations in the Virginia and West Virginia semi-bituminous coal fields. The defendants are charged with restraining trade and fixing prices. The communication relating to bunker coal prices was identified by a government witness, W. W. Willette, of Boston, president of the Chesapeake and Ohio Coal agency, and was written on Sept. 22, last, to W. H. Holland, of the Ballinger Coal company, of Nuttallburg, W. Va., who is a defendant. Mr. Willette had testified, although he was not a member of the smokeless coal operators' association, he had been appointed chairman of that organization's bunker coal committee.

The letter he identified read: "As you know, we do a great deal of bunker business at Newport News and over a period of years. The bunker trade has paid better than other business. This year's business, through the foolishness of some of the operators, permitting a lower figure to be quoted, resulted in the 1916 price being lower than 1915, when it ought to have been higher. I have been made chairman of the bunker coal committee and I shall work very earnestly to obtain a price for 1917 which will result in attractive returns for our operators and unless some of the suppliers do foolish things there is no reason why we should not receive a good price for 1917."

Mr. Willette testified that his price for bunker coal was $3.10 for last April and that two months ago it was $5 a ton. The witness told of meetings held to discuss bunker business and of a so-called London agreement relating to bunker coal purchased in this country for consumption abroad.

MISS PHILLEY'S RECITAL.

A highly pleasing program was given at the Strand theater this morning by pupils of Miss Anna Philley, assisted by Mrs. Georgia Wirth Jones, organist, and Miss Grace Sivitta, pianist, who contributed to the pleasure of a good sized audience. Not only were the readings of the pupils a credit to Miss Philley but her own selection from "Ingomar" was delivered with a dignity and a clarity of diction that was fine.

PASS REQUIRED TO TRIAL OF EMMA GOLDMAN

New York, June 28.—When the trials of Alexander Berkman, editor of the Blast, and Emma Goldman, another anarchist, charged with conspiracy to obstruct the operation of the selective draft law, were resumed here today no one was permitted in the court room who did not hold a pass from the United States marshal's office. These precautions were being taken because of the number of threatening letters which have been received by Judge Mayer, who is hearing the case. The court room is closely guarded by detectives and secret service men. Berkman announced that he would continue to act as his own attorney. Seven jurymen had been accepted when the trial was resumed this morning.

TODAY'S BEAUTY TALK

You can enjoy a delightful shampoo with very little effort and for a very trifling cost, if you get from your druggist a package of canthrox and dissolve a teaspoonful in a cup of hot water. This makes a full cup of shampoo liquid, enough so it is easy to apply it to all the hair instead of just the top of the head. Your shampoo is now ready. Just pour a little at a time on the scalp and hair until both are entirely covered by the daintily perfumed preparation that thoroughly dissolves and removes every bit of dandruff, excess oil and dirt. After rinsing, the hair dries quickly, with a fluffiness that makes it seem heavier than it is, and takes on a rich lustre and a softness that makes arranging it a pleasure.

MAIL SERVICE FOR FIVE HUNDRED MORE

Rerouting of Allen County Should Be in Action by July 15.

Five hundred more Allen county citizens will receive the benefits of rural mail service as the result of the systematic rerouting of the delivery courses. The new delivery system is expected to be placed into effect about July 15.

Inspector Chase returned to Washington on Thursday. He will have official maps made of the new rural route plan. These charts will be approved by Postmaster Miller. Copies of the charts will be sent to each postmaster in Allen county. Then the new delivery system will be placed in operation.

Several miles of delivery service have been added in the county by the rearrangement of the routes. No new routes have been added by the plan. The expenses of delivery will not be increased and yet 500 more people will be given the advantage of free delivery service. There will be less doubling back along the routes under the new scheme.

"The main object is to take the mail to more people," said Postmaster Miller Thursday. "I believe that every farmer possible should have the blessing of mail delivery."

Many Merchants Sign Agreement to Close

During July and August Doors Will Be Locked Saturday Evenings.

Through the efforts of Will H. Rohan, of the Wolf & Dessauer store, the signatures of practically every big downtown store in the city has been secured to the agreement to close on Saturday evenings during the months of July and August. The agreement follows:

"We, the undersigned merchants of Fort Wayne, agree to close our stores at 6 o'clock on Saturday of July and August, 1917."

The plan was tried last summer by a number of the merchants. However, many new merchants have been added to the Saturday night closing this summer.

"ALIEN ENEMY" REPORT READY FOR CAPITALS

Compiling of the reports on the registration of "alien enemies" will be completed Thursday evening, Deputy United States Marshal Harry Muller gives out. Two copies of the registration figures will be sent from Fort Wayne. One list will go to Washington and another to Indianapolis.

Marshal Muller has moved his office from the Federal building to his law office, in the Shoaff building. Two applicants presented themselves to Muller on Thursday. He refused them a chance to register. The time for taking out permits is gone, Muller says.

Khaki Coated Bugs Attack Resources

Winged Hosts Defoliate Trees and Plants in East End.

An army of khaki winged bugs is attacking the food resources of the east end, it was reported to food relief headquarters Thursday. The hosts of insects have practically defoliated the cherry trees and the leaves of garden plants at the east end of Wayne street.

Purdue food expert, F. W. Gray, was called upon to make examination Thursday. He pronounced the bugs to be the "rose chaffer," an insect with remarkable powers for propagation.

There are more of the insects in the region from which the report came, in the 2200 block on Foster avenue than Gray ever knew to make up one army of the pests before. The bugs live upon leaves and other green stuff.

There is no danger of the army of insects spreading over the entire city, Gray states. In another week the beetle-like pests will be gone. They die off late in June, he says. From then on until next spring the insect life is preserved in the larvae and eggs of the bug. The larvae live on grass roots.

Unless stringent precautions are taken the bugs will appear in the same locality next spring.

Immediate check to the activities of the pests is to be found in spraying the leaves of plant life in the neighborhood infested by the insects. A Bordeaux mixture is advised by Gray. The mixture is made up of one and a half ounces of arsenate of lead to a gallon of water. The chemical is poisonous to the insects.

So far the "rose chaffer" is the only form of insect known to be attacking the city food gardens.

MILLERS DISAGREE AS TO WHEAT QUOTATIONS

Two Companies Lower the Figures Five Cents But One Sticks Tight.

Local millers disagreed as to wheat quotations Thursday and a wide range of prices offered for the grain is the result. Two companies dealing in the scarce article lowered their figures 5c, while the third, which is always 2c higher, made no change. The quotations resulting are $2.25 to $2.32 per bushel. No changes were made in flour.

Receipts continued on the slump Thursday, and fourteen loads were all that were weighed at the city scales. Ten of these were hay, selling at $12.00 to $13.00. This bottom price is $1 higher than that of Wednesday, while the top prices is $1 lower. Four loads of corn were taken up at $1.56 to $1.60, a slight weakening being noted. Two loads of oats sold at 69¢ to 70¢ per bushel, where 70¢ was paid Wednesday.

WHEAT DROPS ON EMBARGO PROSPECT

Reduction of Exports Has Immediate Effect on the Market.

Chicago, June 28.—Prospects of immediate embargoes to reduce wheat export to Europe and neutrals gave a downward impulse today to wheat values. Opening quotations which ranged from 2c to 4c lower, with July at $2.01 and September at $1.80 to $1.81, were followed by a slight further decline and then something of a rally.

The close was steady, ½c to 4c net lower, with July at $2.01 and September at $1.82½.

Corn prices weakened as a result of rains in Kansas, where drought had been complained of. After opening ½c to ¾c lower prices suffered a moderate additional setback before a recovery began.

The close was nervous at the same as yesterday's finish to ½c up. Oats eased down with corn. Falling off in shipments of lard and meats had a bearish effect on provisions.

FIRMNESS RULES IN THE STOCK EXCHANGE

Opening Shows Stiffness Except in Motor Group and Specialties.

New York, June 28.—With the exception of the motor group and a few high priced specialties, firmness ruled at the outset of today's dealings. United States Steel advanced a large fraction, affiliated issues recording similar or greater gains. Equipments, some of the metals and oils, Pittsburgh Coal and Ohio Gas shared in the rise, which was attended by considerable activity.

General Motors, Studebaker, Texas company and Industrial Alcohol were reactionary, with declines of one to two points. A sale of Brooklyn Union Gas at 105 represented a loss of almost twelve points. Rails were dull and irregular.

Liquidation and short selling of the automobile divisions, oils and utilities soon became so general as to affect the entire list. Ohio Gas yielded six and Alcohol as much. Texas company falling ¾, U. S. Steel reacted a point, but developed fresh strength with Crucible Steel, Baldwin Locomotive and American Car. Coppers, shippings and rails continued quiet at minor changes. Rails of two to three points in the more speculative issues set in at noon.

Bonds were irregular, dealings in liberty 3½ being at par or better. Steel and some of the motors and oils made lowest prices in the final hour, other leaders yielding proportionately. The closing was heavy. Liberty bonds were active at par to a slight premium.

THE MONEY MARKET.
New York, June 28.—Mercantile paper, 5½¢ to 5½; sterling 60-day bills, 47½; commercial 60-day bills on banks, 47½; commercial 60-day bills, 47½; demand, 47½; cables, 47½ to 48; francs demand, 57½; cables, 57½; guilders demand, 41¼; cables, 41 5-16; lire demand, 721; cables, 720; rubles demand, 22¼; cables, 23; bar silver, 78½; Mexican dollars, 61½; government bonds, firm; railroad bonds, irregular; time loans, easier; 60 days, 90 days and six months, 5½ to 5½.

Call money, firm; high rate, 4; ruling rate, 5; last loan, 5; closing bid, 4; offered at 5.

PENNSYLVANIA HAS MILLIONS TO SPEND

Legislature Has Placed Big
Sum at Disposal of State for War.

Harrisburgh, Pa., June 28.—War measures designed to enable Pennsylvania to perform her share in the present war, formed a prominent part of the legislation passed by the general assembly, which adjourned sine die today, after having been in session since January 2.

The state, which is clear of debt, was authorized by the legislature to issue bonds not exceeding $5,000,000, for the defense of the commonwealth in any emergency that may arise out of the war. In addition $2,000,000 was appropriated to a newly created board known as the state commission of public safety and defense. This commission had already appropriated out of this fund nearly $200,000 to the public safety committee of Pennsylvania, made up of representative citizens of the state, which is aiding in recruiting the army and navy, conserving food supply and otherwise aiding the federal government along lines suggested by the council of national defense at Washington.

Other war measures include the appropriation of $1,500,000 for the construction of armories to take care of the augmented units of the national guard; $165,000 for the improvement of the state camp grounds at Mount Gretna; $282,000 for the equipment of the national guard for war service; establishment of a reserve state militia to take the place of the regular national guard when it enters the federal service, and authorizing additional units to complete a tactical division of the national guard.

Bills were also passed authorizing banks, trust companies, corporations and building and loan associations to invest their surplus capital in state and federal war bonds, authorizing the governor to appoint volunteer police during the war, authorizing the state, counties and municipalities to pay salaries of employees who enlist.

The legislature appropriated approximately $33,000,000 for all state purposes. Of this amount $18,500,000 is for roads; $16,000,000 for schools. Many millions were voted to provide for public charities.

The most important revenue raiser passed was a direct inheritance tax of two per cent.

GENERAL BELL GIVES ADVICE TO SOLDIERS

Tells Engineers and Artillery to Keep Credit of Country High.

New York, June 28.—Major General J. Franklin Bell commanding the department of the east, reviewed a regiment of engineers and a regiment of coast artillery at a fort near here late yesterday. In addressing the troops he said, "In short, the most of you will be in Europe and probably by and by all of you. You must every one of you remember that each soldier will be the representative of this country while over there. Do not base your standard of conduct on what you may expect of others, for remember, that you should conduct yourself in a manner fitting the representatives of such a great and altruistic nation."

"The American soldier is liberally paid and does not have to stoop to petty things. I am sure that no self-respecting, upright, honest and scrupulous man would descend to little things even like taking small fruit that you may come across. That would be looked upon as an act discreditable to you. For everything you get and in your conduct to the French be as generous as you can."

FISHBACK MURDER CASE GOES TO THE JURY

Effort is Made to Fasten
Guilt on Others, But
Court Objects.

Hartford City, Ind., June 28.—The case against William Fishback, charged with the murder of Roy E. Brown, of Redkey, went to the jury late this afternoon. Both the state and defense rested at 1 o'clock yesterday afternoon. Arrangements were made for six hours of argument on each side. There was a night session last evening.

The evidence which the defense intended to present to the effect that Harry Weiss admitted killing Brown was excluded by the court. Fishback testified in his own behalf yesterday, and denied any connection with the disappearance of Brown. He is said to have made a good witness and is believed to have made a favorable impression upon the jury. Fishback testified that he was home on the night the murder is alleged to have been committed. His wife also testified that her husband was home on this night.

Fishback testified that he didn't know Brown had disappeared until the Monday after the night on which Brown is supposed to have been murdered. He was at home helping his wife with the washing at the time he heard the Brown story, he declared.

COUNTY DEFENSE COUNCIL ORGANIZED

W. H. SCHEIMANN,
President.

FRANK E. BOHN,
Vice President.

J. ROSS MCCULLOCH,
Treasurer.

CHARLES R. LANE,
Secretary.

Organization of the Allen County Council for Defense organized at a meeting held at the Commercial club, Wednesday evening. The officers are named above. The other members as they were appointed by Judge J. W. Eggegan are Rev. A. J. Folsom, P. S. Hunting and Mrs. George Evans. The secretary was instructed to report the election of officers to Judge Eggegan who in turn must report to the state organization.

The local council was already organized and ready for work when the national and the state councils of defense were begun and the effort was made to have the council recognized as the Allen County Council of Defense. For the sake of uniformity all over the nation it was thought best to have the Council for Patriotic Service appear on the books at Indianapolis as the Allen County Council of Defense.

Under this advice the Allen County Council of Defense was appointed by Judge Eggegan so that it should consist of the same persons as compose the executive committee of the local council with the exception of Judge Eggegan and Miss Hamilton, the latter being out of town for three months.

For all local service either initiated here or performed under instructions from the state council the Council for Patriotic Service will be the agency. The council will stand on the records at Indianapolis, however, as the Allen County Council of Defense.

PRICE OF COAL HAS BEEN BROUGHT DOWN

ONE DOLLAR TO $1.50 TON WILL COME OFF PRICE

Hundreds of Operators Meet in Washington and are Made to See the New Light.

PRICES MAY BE FURTHER REDUCED LATER

Washington, June 28.—An immediate general reduction of $1 to $1.50 a ton in the price of coal at the mine was agreed upon here today by representatives of the coal operators.

This reduction is expected to be followed by still further decreases in price after investigation into the cost of mining coal and it is probable the government will be given a still lower price than that to the general public. Hundreds of millions of dollars will be saved to the American people through this decision.

A conference of 400 operators representing all coal producing states, took quick action today toward lowering coal prices, by adopting resolutions authorizing their committees "to give assent to such maximum prices for coal free on board" cars at mines in the various districts as may be named by the secretary of the interior, federal trade commission and the council of national coal producing committee.

Plans were agreed on for announcement later today of tentative "fair and reasonable prices" based on suggestions from the operators, to be effective July 1.

The resolution giving "assent" to fixing of maximum prices was reported

Secretary of Navy Says the

Annapolis, Md., June 28.—America is demonstrating to the world that a democracy of a hundred million persons can wage war efficiently. Secretary Daniels declared in a commencement address to nearly 200 members of the naval academy third year class whose graduation was advanced by a year to provide officers for fighting ships.

"Those who prophesied that America would not go wholeheartedly into this war have been discredited," said the secretary. "The only divided councils have been as to the best method to be employed, and when the president and congress have spoken their decision has been accepted."

Tradition Set Aside.
"Our tradition policy has been against any but voluntary military service. When conditions demanded the selective draft it was written into the law. There were those who told us men of military age would not enroll and riots would mark the day of registration. Instead it was a day of consecration and the enrollment was larger than the census figures indicated."

"Congress authorized the issue of two billions of dollars for war preparations. The bond issue was a failure," croaked a few pessimists. Their croaking was drowned by the multi-

A WASTE THAT COSTS COUNTRY BILLION A YEAR

Washington, June 28.—More than a billion dollars worth of barnyard refuse is wasted in the United States annually, which at this time is a national tragedy, according to Carl Vrooman, assistant secretary of agriculture, in a statement issued today, urges its conservation as a war measure by American farmers. "This is the prize waste of the world's greatest single preventable economic leak," said Mr. Vrooman. "The experts of our department have figured that at least half of the animal refuse, all of which is available for fertilizer, is lost to agriculture every year.

"At this time such a waste is a national tragedy. In peace time the waste would be enough, but with the solemn duty of saving the world from famine upon us the vital need for the utmost economy of this natural resource ought to be apparent to everyone. Here is a job for the American farmer which ought to challenge his pride and patriotism. It is not simply a colossal war measure. It is a measure which, if put into practice, will permanently benefit American agriculture."

EL UNIVERSAL IS

States in War.

Mexico City, June 27.—(Delayed.)—El Universal, in a vigorous answer to attacks by pro-German newspapers on the propaganda which advocates an alliance of Mexico with the United States and a break with Germany charges that the newspapers which have attacked the project either have received remuneration for their services or are without standing.

The newspaper says the project proposed by Dr. Alfred Zimmerman, the German foreign secretary for a Mexican-German alliance, has no advocates in Mexico while a large number of prominent men have expressed the opinion that the cause of the entente allies is the cause of Mexico.

It adds that these men have been waiting to answer attacks against the proposal that the only role for Mexico is to join the entente, but that no well known person has challenged and that no pen of prestige has been lifted and they could cross swords without dishonor. El Democrat, the principal pro-German paper today prints a telegraphic statement from General Obregon, former secretary of war, saying that it is his opinion that Mexico should maintain her neutrality absolutely.

Manuel Ugarte, Argentine poet, who has been one of the leaders in the pro-German propaganda in Mexico, left for his home today.

GIVE UP ALL FRANCHISES

Traction Companies Will Operate Under Permits from Commission.

DIRECTORS REACH
DECISION IN MEET

Session is Held in New York
With President Feustel Present.

In a meeting of the board of directors of the Fort Wayne and Northern Indiana Traction company, held in New York, a decision was made to give up all franchises of the company and operate under indeterminate permits from the public service commission. Franchises were given up in Fort Wayne, Huntington, Roanoke, Wabash, Peru, Logansport, Lafayette and Bluffton.

The same decision was made for the Fort Wayne and Wabash Valley Utilities company, with franchises in New Haven, Ossian, Rockfield, Flora, Camden and Uniondale, and for the Fort Wayne and Decatur Traction company with franchises in Fort Wayne and Decatur.

Advantages to the company in the giving up of franchises lie in the fact that under the permit from the public service commission time is not limited as under franchises. Also under the new system rates may be charged by petition to the commission.

In order to change it was necessary to make the decision before July 1, that being the latest date upon which the utilities of the state could surrender their franchises and accept indeterminate franchises. President R. M. Feustel, who attended the meeting, has not yet returned from New York.

London, June 28.—The Copenhagen correspondent of the Exchange Telegraph reports that the Norwegian police, continuing their investigation of the plot to destroy Norwegian steamships by means of explosives brought into the country by a courier of the German foreign office, conducted a seven hour examination of Aron Rautenfels, who was arrested in connection with the conspiracy. Rautenfels showed great nervousness while undergoing an examination of two hours by the chief of the Norwegian detective force. ## SIBERIAN CONVICT IS HERO OF FIGHT ON RUSSIAN FRONT

Petrograd, June 28.—The hero of the army in the wooded Carpathians is a former convict from Siberia, who, by his example, inspired an attack by forces which heretofore had obstinately refused to charge. The convict, whose rank is sergeant, led fifty volunteers in a rush on a German position. The attacking party, confused by heavy fire, wavered, whereupon the sergeant alone climbed the breastwork and hurled a bomb among the enemy. Attacked by three Germans, he sabered and shot two of them. Then, with only eighteen followers, several strongly held blindages were rushed. This produced general panic among the enemy and resulted in the capture of many prisoners. The sergeant was given an officer's commission, two regiments invited him to take command and the whole of his division resolved immediately to participate in an offensive.

OUR TROOPS IN FRANCE.

News of the landing of a large part of General Pershing's army in France serves more than anything else so far has done to impress the people of the United States that the country is in the great war. We have had all sorts of testimonies to this by various incidents from the declaration of war itself, early in April, down to the big drive of the present week for recruits to fill up the regulars. Numerous acts of congress, registration for the draft, the Liberty Loan, the Red Cross campaign and all the bustle in one way and another to put the nation in a state of defense have given the people no opportunity to forget that they are at war. But it is the landing of an army on the soil of France that stirs the nation.

The arrival of General Pershing and his staff in Europe, impressive though that was of the fact that an actual entrance into the war had been made, did not impart the thrill that came when the cables brought the news that thousands of regulars had disembarked. The boys are there. More of them soon will be there. The flower of Uncle Sam's small but highly efficient army and the marines—the fore and front marines—are on the soil of France and waiting for the order that shall take them to the firing lines. After the lapse of one hundred and forty years America under the leadership of Pershing is making requital of the debt incurred when France under the leadership of Lafayette joined arms and spirit with the Continentals for freedom in the new world.

Historically, the event is epochal. It marks a new juncture of the free and democratic nations of the world for liberty in all lands, for the safety of great and small, for earth's peace secure. It signalizes an abandonment of America's traditional policies and aloofness from the great affairs of international politics, an abandonment as startling as it has been inescapable under the stern compulsions of this world-conflagration in which our own national structure is threatened. We are actually now in the war and face all its portents and meanings.

With that in mind it well befits us and each of us to undertake a full understanding of the duty that rests upon the nation and all of its people. The war must be won. Failure to win it will expose us to perils that cannot be overestimated. The future of our own country, the future of democratic freedom in the earth, depend now upon the way in which this nation, its government and its people shall acquit themselves.

Here as in France and in Great Britain and even as in the land of our foe, there must be complete devotion of spirit, unreserved readiness for all the sacrifices that war can entail upon us. Our soldiers are now at the threshold of battle. We must stand by them and all the hundreds of thousands who are yet to follow them to the firing lines.

We are in the war. Our first army is in France.

KEEPING GOOD FAITH.

The needlessness of a legal or military censorship to muzzle the American press against possibility of serious indiscretions with war news has been once more disclosed in a way that must impress the government and the people in general.

Notwithstanding it had been known in hundreds of newspaper offices that thousands of troops were on their way to France and that the time of their landing was imminent, not a word of it was given publication until the news was authorized in Washington. During the mobilization of the troops on the eastern seaboard for embarkation no account of it was given publicity. The public, though perhaps vaguely suspecting from the known presence of General Pershing in France that troops soon would arrive there, had no knowledge that the army had been assembled and set afloat. There was not even any general knowledge of the mobilization. During recent weeks scores of troop trains passed through this city en route to the east. Those who saw them doubtless suspected what was in the wind. Newspapers here knew of this heavy transportation of troops and were familiar with their destination. No word of it was printed.

The fact that many thousands of soldiers and marines—perhaps more men than Washington ever had at one time under his command—were assembled and disembarked and shipped without any public inkling of all this speaks well for the diligence and system of the war and navy departments, but more for the good faith of the newspapers and news associations that knew it, yet cheerfully and fully acquiesced in the government's request that no publicity be given. No newspaper was under legal restraint to suppress this most interesting news. No press association was under any sort of enforceable obligation not to spread this intelligence far and wide. The moral and patriotic obligation sufficed for all. No legal censorship was needed.

Thenewspapers of the country kept faith with the government and with the national welfare. A considerable army was assembled, put on ships and transported in safety across the Atlantic to France and the public in the interest of the security and success of the expedition was kept in ignorance of it until the murdering gauntlet of the U-boats had been run and it became prudent to tell the people of the country that their boys were treading the heroic soil of France.

So long as the press of the country and the agencies of the press observe the moral restraints of the military situation there can be little patience with proposals to apply the gag. That intervention will keep very well until the need for it shall have been shown.

SATURDAY NIGHT CLOSING.

That there may be no misunderstanding and confusion to the detriment of a worthy movement, The Sentinel desires to correct a statement in a morning paper that may mislead some into a belief that it is proposed to close Fort Wayne's retail stores at noon Saturday. No such an undertaking is afoot. The proposal is to make general, if possible, the closing of retail stores at 6 o'clock in the evening on Saturdays during the months of July and August.

This practice has had some establishment here for two or three years and it is held in favor by many of the merchants. Of course those who subscribe to it make some degree of sacrifice in trade so long as competitors do not join the movement. This year there appears to be a far more general readiness of the down town merchants to release their sales forces at 6 o'clock Saturday during the sweltering weather of midsummer than ever before and the promise seems good that the arrangement will be made.

There is not and there has not been any design to close the retail stores at noon Saturday. Statement that there is such a purpose is due to a misunderstanding. The jobbing houses long have maintained the practice of closing at noon Saturday during the summer months, but no suggestion ever has been made that the retail establishments do this.

Merchants are numerous signing the agreement for Saturday night closing and it is believed that before the first of July it will be settled that by far the greater part of the down town stores of almost all classes will have entered the compact to give their employees release from the heat and fatigue of midsummer nights.

The senate seems finally to have got some courage of conviction on the issue of war prohibition. At all events, the agriculture committee of that body has, for it reports to the chamber a modified food control bill in which the president is permitted latitude only for allowing the manufacture of wine. Beer and booze, both of which consume vast quantities of grain, are consigned to the death list. Indiana brewers and distillers should worry—but not for long. The worst to come is near at hand anyway.

Just what sort of a pull the wretch Cocchi had with the police of New York to enable him to block so much as even a plausible bluff at solving the Ruth Cruger murder mystery can hardly be guessed at, save on the hypothesis that the white slave traffic figures in the tragedy and that to have unraveled the affair would have interfered seriously with business. The promise of a thorough investigation of the police stupidity or worse will be hailed with interest beyond Manhattan.

America's army in France is not large, as armies go in these days, but it is big enough to furnish an ample guarantee of good faith and there are hundreds of thousands of others where those came from. In due time and wholly fit and trim they will arrive where their brothers in arms have led the way. Meanwhile, when the Pershing divisions and the fighting marines get on the move there will be good enough token of America in the war.

THE CALL OF THE PARK

By V. M. HATFIELD.

I am spiritless and weary,
And the day is dark and dreary;
Life is just an irritation and a fight:
But I see a silver lining
To the cloud that brings repining,
I am going to the park tonight.

I am longing for the breezes,
And the charming lake that pleases;
For the flow'rs, the winding vistas and the light:
Even now my heart rejoices
At the thought of happy voices
That will greet me when I reach the park tonight.

Life is full of aggravations,
Anxious moments and vexations;
There are days when met with a thing is going right:
All this day I've not with trouble,
And my burdens have seemed double,
But I'm going to the park tonight.

Dreams of happiness unfold me!
Fancy's restless arms uphold me!
Gentle zephyrs waft my soul to freedom's height!
Fly, ye labor-ridden hours;
Welcome sweet Elysian bowers;
Welcome joys that wait my at the park tonight.

How the ills of life diminish;
Own defeat, and find their finish,
When the future holds a compensation bright!
So my burdens shall not vex me,
Nor my heavy woes perplex me,
For I'm going to the park tonight.

Let the day bring toil and worry,
Naught can put me in a flurry,
For I've heard it said, "Whatever is, is right;"
But when working hours are ended,
All my troubles will be mended;
I shall find my solace at the park tonight.

GERMAN PATENTS ARE IMPAIRING AMERICAN EFFICIENCY FOR WAR

BY BASIL M. MANLY.

America's efficiency in war, medicine and industry is seriously impeded by existing legal prohibitions on the use of German patents, formulas and processes. German corporations and individuals control patents on a large number of valuable preparations, machines and processes which are badly needed not only in civil life but by our army and navy, but which under existing law we are unable to use without the permission of German representatives and the payment of exorbitant prices to the German title-holders.

The most glaring example of the way in which American lives are endangered by this legalistic prohibition is the case of salvarsan—"606"—the famous remedy for syphilis invented by Dr. Ehrlich, which cannot now be obtained except by the payment of an outrageous price to the American representatives of the German corporation which controls the patent rights and trade marks.

How serious this situation has become is explained by the world famous which deal peace-meal with this situation—one by Senator Nelson which abrogates the German rights for salvarsan, and one by Senator Pomerene which gives the army and navy the right to manufacture or contract for manufacture of any articles controlled by the Germans and leaves the question of compensation to be settled after the war.

What is needed, however, to deal with this situation is a clear-cut bill which will abrogate all German patents, trade-marks and formulas and throw them wide open to the use of Americans.

Uncle Harry Talks About the Red Cross Society and Its Wonderful Work

"Tell us about the Red Cross," said Helen.

"That's quite a big order," said Uncle Harry, "but I'll be glad to do my best to answer your question. In the first place, Red Cross Week has just ended, the week having been fixed by President Wilson for a campaign to raise $100,000,000 to help pay the cost of the hospital relief work for the American soldiers and the non-combatants of the warring countries."

"Did the Red Cross start in the United States?" asked Joe.

"No, indeed," said Uncle Harry, "although much of the finest and most helpful Red Cross work has been done by the American branch. The first Red Cross work was done more than sixty years ago in the southern part of Russia during the Crimean war. Since then Red Cross work has spread to every civilized country in the world—there are Red Cross societies everywhere. And wherever there is a widespread suffering, whether it is caused by war or an earthquake or a fire or a tidal wave or what not, there you will find Red Cross nurses and Red Cross doctors—as brave and self-sacrificing a lot of women and men as the most daring aeronauts or soldiers."

"Won't you tell us how the Red Cross was started?" asked Jimmy.

"Gladly," said Uncle Harry. "As I said, the first Red Cross work was done more than sixty years ago—to be exact, in 1864. The Crimean war was being fought between Russia, on one side, and Turkey, France and England on the other side. Crimea is a Russian province way down in the southern part of that country, on the Black sea. The suffering of the soldiers was terrible and the governments of the warring nations didn't seem to be able to meet the situation."

"And a woman named Florence Nightingale?" Helen faltered after starting to speak; she wasn't quite sure whether she was correct.

"That's right," said Uncle Harry. "Florence Nightingale was the name of the woman who started and actually did the first Red Cross work in the history of the world. She was an Italian woman who had become a nurse and was engaged in hospital work in England at the outbreak of Crimean war. When the reports of the suffering of the soldiers in Crimea reached England, Miss Nightingale raised as much money as she could and bought hospital supplies, and then gathered together thirty-four nurses who were willing to volunteer their services, and sailed for Crimea. Most people opposed the whole idea and plan at first, because women had never done work like that before. But Miss Nightingale and her nurses went right ahead and the relief they rendered the wounded and dying soldiers away over there in Russia, along the shores of the Black sea, won the undying gratitude of the soldiers. And before the Crimean war was over, made these first Red Cross nurses the most talked of and most popular women in the world."

"I guess Miss Nightingale isn't living now," said Helen.

"No, she died in 1910," said Uncle Harry, "one of the most—if not the most, beloved and respected women in the world. She founded a work that has meant life and happiness to millions of people."

"After the Crimean war the Red Cross idea spread to other countries and societies began springing up everywhere. In 1864 there was a convention held at Geneva, Switzerland, at which there were representatives from all the principal countries. The Red Cross was recognized as an international organization and all the governments agreed to respect Red Cross workers at all times as non-combatants. And the Red Cross has grown steadily ever since, until today it is represented in forty different nations."

"The Red Cross is not run by the governments, is it?" asked Joe.

"No, the Red Cross is owned by THE PEOPLE OF THE WORLD," said Uncle Harry. "It is supported by voluntary contributions, and each member pays a small sum a year, and gives as much time as possible to making the various things needed by the doctors and nurses in their work. There are close to 1,000,000 members in the United States today, including men, women, girls and boys; many having joined since the war started, more particularly since the United States entered the war. And ever since 1914, when the first shot was fired Red Cross workers from this country and from every other nation have been in Europe

"The New York Central track is really perfect"

—JOSEPH CARLIER, Assistant Professor of Railway, Liege University, Belgium.

Professor Carlier was recently in this country making an official study of American railways as a model for Belgium.

In an interview in the New York Times he made the statements reproduced herewith concerning the New York Central Lines.

But a railroad, however perfect to-day, will be inadequate to perform its functions to-morrow without constant heavy expenditures of new capital.

Rising prices for fuel, labor, materials and equipment make it imperative that the public and governmental authorities afford fair treatment, and permit compensating rates, in order that it may maintain that stability of credit which is necessary to attract new capital in competition with world-wide international borrowing.

The New York Central Lines "America's Greatest Railway System"

"For the Public Service"

"My trip on the New York Central was made in a splendid new electric locomotive of 2,000 horse power. I have visited many railroad shops in England and have seen many electrifications. I found the working of the New York Central electrification really wonderful. The stability of the locomotive, the working of the engine—I was quite surprised. It was really splendid. I cannot say too much for the motion, in a word, I did not feel any disturbance which would indicate a fault in the track or a wrong conception in the locomotive. The maintenance of the track for the section traveled by me is really perfect, as compared with similar tracks on European railroads. It is not necessary to speak of the terminal. It is a work of genius. It is the only work in the world of its kind. Every one knows that. Is it not so?"

"HOW I SOLVED RUTH CRUGER MYSTERY," STORY OF A WOMAN DETECTIVE WHO IS NOT A DETECTIVE

"I Went on the Theory That Ruth Was a Good Girl and Not Another Girl Gone Wrong, Which Seemed to Be the Police View," Says Grace Humiston, the Lawyer Sleuth.

By FREDERICK M. KERRY. [Staff Special.]

New York, June 25.—Why did Mrs. Grace Humiston, American great Ruth Cruger murder mystery when New York's most famous sleuths failed? Because she believed in the innate goodness of girl nature, as opposed to the police theory that most girls who leave home are bad.

When little 18-year-old Ruth Cruger disappeared early in February, after going to the motorcycle repair shop of Alfredo Cocchi in West 127th street, to get her skates sharpened, the New York detective bureau made a perfunctory investigation, winked its cynical eyes and said, "Another girl gone wrong!"

Alfredo Cocchi, who is held in Italy for the murder of Ruth Cruger, to which he has confessed, and Cocchi's wife and children.

But when the distracted parents of Ruth Cruger called Mrs. Grace Humiston into the case, she decided almost at once the police were wrong.

"Ruth was a good girl, I soon found out from her school girl friends," said Mrs. Humiston today.

Mrs. Humiston looks anything but the conventional woman lawyer type. Of medium build, with dark hair, tinged with gray, and brown eyes, quietly dressed in a dark purple gown, Mrs. Humiston is just the kind of womanly woman on whom a distracted mother might call for help to find her lost girl.

"In the first place," she said, "there were just four persons working on the case, my secretary, two private detectives and myself. We had utmost confidence in one another. My first inquiries convinced me Ruth had not run away; I felt sure she was a good girl and Cocchi could solve the mystery."

"We eliminated every clue that led outside New York city. I searched morgues, cemeteries and hospitals. I became convinced the girl had been murdered and Cocchi could solve the mystery. We investigated the cellar and found the police search of the place had been superficial."

"When Cocchi was discovered in Italy, I felt my murder theory was right. It became necessary to make a thorough search of the cellar under his workshop. We began that work but were stopped by Mrs. Cocchi. I went to the police and obtained authority to continue the excavation that resulted in finding the body."

Back of this simple story is Mrs. Humiston's genius for detective work. She has, through her law practice an helping the sick and wounded and the men, women and children who have suffered in other ways from the war. Nurses, doctors, ambulance drivers, stretcher bearers, and last but by no means least, the good faithful Red Cross dogs, which have been working valiantly and tirelessly to help the war-stricken people of Europe.

"Now that the United States has entered the war and an American army is going to France, there will be more and more work for the American branch of the Red Cross to do. The society and the government are working together and already a special American Red Cross commission has gone to France to make its plans for the important work that will have to be done while the war continues—and even for a long while after peace is declared. It is a great work, children, and the war is so terrible and is causing such awful suffering that the Red Cross needs and can use all the assistance that everyone can give it."

Editor's Note—Uncle Harry will be glad to answer inquiries, either in this column or by mail, provided letters are signed with the full name and address of the persons writing. The correspondents' names will not appear in the articles.

MISS EDNA LEE DEAD AT SOUTH WHITLEY

Well Known Young Woman Passes Away After an Extended Illness.

(Special to The Sentinel.)

Columbia City, Ind., June 25.—Miss Edna Lee, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Lee, of South Whitley, died Tuesday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock at the home following a long illness from tubercular trouble and spinal meningitis. She was aged 26 years and is survived by her parents and the following brother and sisters: Roy, Mrs. Charles Burnhart and Mrs. Wilber Wiley, of South Whitley; and Miss Nina, of South Bend. The funeral occurred Thursday afternoon at the home, Rev. Holmes, of the U. B. church, officiating; interment in South Whitley cemetery.

Columbia City Short Notes.

Mrs. Jacob Tyron, aged 18 years, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Sherman Slesser, of Serbia, former residents of Whitley county, and married only last fall to her husband, committed suicide Tuesday evening at 6 o'clock at her home, taking a bottle of carbolic acid and swallowing half the contents before her husband could take it away from her. She died an hour later.

Herbert Clugston and James Blain, of Columbia City, have both been rejected on account of physical defects at the officers' training camp at Fort Benjamin Harrison, Indianapolis, and they will arrive home soon.

Frances, daughter of Ed Egoft, and Udoora, daughter of Ervin Hartman, south of the city, and Leona, daughter of Martin Dryer, of Washington town, ship, were taken to the Lutheran hospital in Fort Wayne and had their tonsils removed by Dr. McBride.

The Red Cross war relief fund at 3:30 Wednesday afternoon amounted to $14,120.

An oil stove in the cottage of John Fleming and family, on the banks of Round lake, caught fire for some unknown reason Wednesday noon and for a time the home was threatened with a blaze. The stove was thrown out the door, and the damage to the home limited to a general scorching.

Eugene Mosher was arrested late Wednesday afternoon by Constable Simon Gardner for the alleged jumping of a board bill of $49, owing to Mrs. Henry Dillon.

Twenty-eighth infantry, and Private James Washburn, of the Sixteenth infantry, whose parents reside in Columbia City.

The recital of voice pupils of Mrs. E. H. Kirkland given in Elks' hall last evening was varied in the program by Miss Elviah McGuire, reader, who followed her two selections named by an encore number, by Miss Ruth Anderson who played a Moszkowski waltz and the Rachmaninoff "Polichinelle" in a brilliant manner and with clean execution and rhythm by Miss Christine Pepe, who played two selections for the violin with style, ease and good tone and by Robert Sinclair, a young student who played the Moszkowski "Etincelles" and Goard's third mazurka very well indeed. The vocalists for the evening were young students who displayed excellent phrasing and ideas of how their selections should be sung, and each made a good stage appearance. Miss Elviah Schanz and Miss Irene Flaherty did the best all round work from every point of view of voice progression but others displayed various individual qualities that should make for success. Everyone sang from memory and with confidence. Other singers aside from those mentioned were Misses Janet Howey, Agnes Sweet, Mildred Ehrman and Hazel Shoub. Miss Edna Bauerle assisted in the accompanying in a very satisfactory manner. Miss Margaret Fry and Paul Bacheler gave brief selections of interpretative dancing at the close of the program and Miss Fry displayed her accomplishment in toe work to good advantage. The audience gave hearty applause to the entire program.

INSTRUCTION IN PHYSICAL CULTURE FOR WOMEN WILL BE GIVEN BY WELL-KNOWN GIRL ATHLETE

Instruction in physical culture for women will be given at intervals on this page by Miss Vera Roehm, a noted girl athlete. These instructions will be of a sort easily pursued at home.

Miss Roehm is a Baltimore girl, a former trained nurse, who afterward became a physical trainer and was a star in an athletic specialty with the "Passing Show."

She has boxed such experts as A. B. Attell, former featherweight champion, Johnny Kilbane, present feather weight champion, and Leach Cross. In her three-round bout with Cross she lost one tooth.

Miss Roehm's recipe for perfect health is threefold — pure air, pure water and physical culture.

"Physical culture is useless without pure air and pure water," she says. "But most girls who practice physical training also breathe pure air and drink pure water."

"If you will observe athletic girls, you will nearly always find the glow of perfect health on their cheeks."

SEASONS ARE UNKNOWN TO FUR COAT MAKERS.

It appears that fur coats are to know not one season from another. Moths will please take notice: for them there will be no scarcity of food. Shore coats and motor coats composed of pelts are actually on sale, and they are beautiful. Squirrel coats for summer are unreasonable enough, but fancy investing in sable, kolinsky, ermine or chinchilla! Goodbye bank balance.

The kimono sleeve is the accepted cut, and rightly so, since its ample folds do not crush pretty sleeves, and permit the garment to slip on and off comfortably. The moyenage back gives long lines and permits plenty of spread and sway. As a rule, there are large convertible collars, directoire revers and crossed belts.

MAKE BABY NEW DRESS FROM DAD'S OLD SHIRT

A man's discarded soft shirt can be very conveniently made over into little dresses for babies or small children. Shirts seem invariably to wear out at the cuffs or neckband before the body of the garment shows any signs of wear or even becomes faded.

One-year-old dress patterns just fit comfortably onto the skirt—the front of the dress to the back of the shirt, and vice versa—and, best of all, oftentimes the original buttons and buttonholes are as neatly placed after the transformation as before.

OF THIN PAISLEY SILK.

Attractive wraps for wear over summer evening frocks are of thin printed Paisley silk, unlined, and made of a single long strip of the silk dropped in a deep burrhouse loop at the back to make a hood.

A golden tassel swings from the hood and incidentally weights the soft silk enough to keep the burrhouse in place. A band of velvet ribbon in harmonizing tone outlines the neck opening and front edges of the wrap, which fastens with gold cords ending in tassels.

Thursday.

South Wayne branch, Thursday evening at South Wayne school, with nuptial present for those who wish to register. Speakers, Miss Kolb and Mr. Perry.

Lakeside school, Thursday at 3:30 p. m.

Friday.

Sec. 9, Hoagland school, 3:30 p. m. Mr. Hogg will speak on "The History of Women's Rights."

Sec. 5, Bloomingdale school, 8 p. m. Speaker to be announced.

Sec. 10, James H. Smart school, 8 p. m. Miss Elizabeth Murphy will speak on "Why Women Should Vote," and Lloyd Armstrong on "The Initiative, Referendum and Recall."

These meetings are important and the women of the several districts are expected to attend them.

The Woman's league of the Wayne Street M. E. church and the parent-teacher club of the Washington school are to have a non-partisan meeting in the church parlors from 2 to 6 o'clock on Friday. All women are invited, and those of the west end particularly are asked to register at the time. Dr. Carrie Banning and Mrs. Warrington are to give talks.

WATCH REFRIGERATOR WHEN TEMPERATURE CLIMBS HIGH

Ice chests and refrigerators need special care during the hot summer months.

Some forms of bacteria thrive at a low temperature and practically all varieties need dampness to aid in their growth. The interior of the ice chest should be wiped every day with a dry cloth. At least once a week everything should be removed so that the sides, shelves and drain may be thoroughly scalded. The water used for this purpose should be actually boiling when it is poured in and the process should be repeated several times.

Ice used for cooling purposes only is not always clean. For this reason food which is not afterward to be cooked should not be brought into direct contact with the ice. Food that is to be eaten raw should be carefully cleaned before being put on the ice and wrapped in clean cloths or inclosed in paper sacks.

A folded paper, or clean cloth should be laid on the floor of a one-compartment ice chest. This will prevent particles of dirt from the ice from clogging the drain. It will also result in a saving of ice.

Portions of canned food should never be put in the ice chest in tins. Empty them into a receptacle.

HOW TO CAN FOOD WITH THE ORDINARY HOME UTENSILS

Adults and Children Easily Can Put Up Fruits and Vegetables by Method Taught to Canning Clubs in the Northern and Western States.

CAN SURPLUS FOOD BUT USE JARS AND CANS WISELY.

Don't have an empty preserving jar in your home next fall. There may be some difficulty in securing cans and preserving jars.

Reserve regular tight-sealing containers for vegetables, concentrated soups, meats and fish. Concentrate products so that each jar or can will hold as much food and as little water as possible.

Put up jams, jellies and preserves in glasses sealed with cork or paper and paraffin. Pack fruit juices in ordinary bottles.

Don't can anything that can be kept just as well dried or in other forms. Dry dairy and mature Lima beans for winter use.

Produce in your garden lots of cabbage, potatoes and root crops that can be kept for the winter without canning.—United States department of agriculture.

Don't let valuable surplus fruits and vegetables go to waste. Adults and children in a very few hours, with little other home equipment than a wash boiler and cans and jars, can preserve much valuable perishable food for next winter's use. Succulent vegetables and fruits are important to health the year round. See that your table is supplied.

The simple one-period cold-pack method described is that taught by the United States department of agriculture for the boys and girls of the canning clubs in the northern and western states. With this method thousands of boys and girls each season put up vast quantities of fruits and vegetables. With this method practically every vegetable and fruit grown in this section can be canned.

The wash-boiler method described below is entirely effective. Those who desire may purchase home-size water-seal, steam pressure or pressure cooker canning outfits which save time and fuel.

Preliminary Preparation for Canning.

Provide a false bottom of wooden lattice work, cross pieces of wood, or coarse wire netting for your clean wash boiler or other large, deep vessel to be used for sterilizing.

Fill the vessel with clean water so that boiling water will cover the tops of the jars or cans. Begin heating the water so that it will be boiling violently by the time the containers are packed. See that all cans or jars are in good condition and absolutely clean. Scald them thoroughly. Use new rubber rings and scald them just before putting them on the jars.

Preparing Fruits and Vegetables.

Start with clean hands, clean utensils, and clean, sound, fresh products. Throw out all vegetables and fruits which are withered or unsound. Wash out all grit and dirt. If possible, use only fruits and vegetables picked the same day and never can peas and corn picked more than five hours.

Prepare fruits and large-sized vegetables for blanching. Remove all spots from apples.

Prepare beans and greens as for cooking. Be especially careful to remove all foreign plants from the greens.

Blanch vegetables and all fruits except berries by leaving them from 3 to 5 minutes in clean boiling water. Remove the blanched products from the boiling water and plunge them quickly into cold water, the colder the better. Take them out immediately and let them drain. Don't let them soak in the cold water.

From this point on, speed is highly important. The blanched vegetables and fruits, which are slightly warm, must not be allowed to remain out of the jars a moment longer than is necessary.

Remove skins when required and as each is pared cut it up into proper size and pack directly into the clean, scalded cans or jars.

Pack as solid as possible, being careful not to bruise or mash soft products.

In the case of fruit, fill the containers at once with boiling hot syrup. In the case of vegetables, fill the containers with boiling hot water to which a little salt has been added.

Place scalded rubber rings on the glass jars and screw down the tops. Seal tin cans completely. Watch them for leaks. As the preliminary treatment has taken care of expansion it is not necessary to exhaust the cans.

How to Sterilize or Process.

Put the jars or cans as soon as possible into boiling water in a wash boiler or into your canning device. Let them process for the time specified in the table, counting from the time the water begins to boil, or the gauge on the canning outfit registers the proper pressure.

Time schedule given is based upon the one quart pack and upon fresh picked products.

When processing fruits in steam pressure canners, not over five pounds of steam pressure should be used.

When processing vegetables and meats do not use over fifteen pounds of pressure.

After processing, remove the containers.

Tighten the tops of jars immediately and stand the containers upside down in a cool place, being careful that no draft strikes the hot jars. Watch for leakage and screw covers down tighter when necessary. Store in a cool, dry place, not exposed to freezing temperature.

Use band labels for cans, being careful not to let the glue get on the can itself as it may cause rust.

From time to time, especially in very hot weather, examine jars and cans, making certain that there are no leaks, swellings or other signs of fermentation.

There will be no spoilage if the directions are followed implicitly and the containers are sealed up tight.

Fruits which are put up with heavy syrups can be kept under cork and paraffin seal. Save all wide-necked bottles, glasses and jars for putting up fruits.

Vegetables, meats and fish, however, cannot be kept safely unless they are hermetically sealed. Reserve regular jars for products that cannot be packed in other ways.

As there may be some difficulty in securing cans and jars, dry or keep in other ways everything that need not be canned.

Checks Are Good Style for Summer

MISS ADELIADE SEDGWICK.

A checked tub dress worn recently by Miss Adelaide Sedgwick at an informal morning function in New York is an excellent example of the taste for simple frocks which society girls are cultivating.

That a summer frock should appear dainty and cool rather than expensive seems to be the style ideal in many social circles.

"Yes, it pays to purchase one's furniture at Pickard's," said the practical housewife to one of her friends, "it pays handsomely!"

"I was first attracted to Pickard's," she continued, "by something they were advertising at that time. A clerk promptly showed me what I asked for, and although I was given ample opportunity to look at similar pieces at different prices, I didn't have that feeling that they were trying to force me into spending more money."

"And then, I've found that Pickard's have established a reputation for handling good, substantial furniture—and they seem to value that reputation enough so that they won't risk injuring it by selling you something that will not stand the wear and tear. That's worth a whole lot to me! By experience I have learned that I may depend on what ever Pickard's say about the article I am considering. Really, I would recommend that you go to Pickard's for whatever you need in the way of furniture!"

Pershing's Son is General Too

WARREN PERSHING

Staff Special.
Omaha, Neb., June 27.—A real general's son is Warren Pershing, 3, son of Maj. Gen. J. J. Pershing, who is living here with his aunt, Miss May Pershing.

Dressed in a suit of regulation olive drab, given him by army officers in Washington, "Gen." Warren Pershing plays war and as son of a general commands a troop of Omaha boys and girls who are proud to serve under him.

"If this war had only waited a couple of years father would have taken me to Europe with him," Warren declared. "If the war lasts long I'll be over there helping him lick the Germans. We'll lick 'em, too."

"If the war doesn't last, I'm going to West Point anyway."

"Gen." Pershing's "regiment" includes four boys and three girls. His "war office" consists of a camp chair brought back from the Pershing Mexican expedition and a military trunk which serves as a desk.

Warren has always lived in a military atmosphere. His aunts, who have raised him since the death of his mother and sisters in the San Francisco fire, use military terms in their conversation and insist on military discipline at home.

When he is not drilling his "troops," Warren works in his war garden.

NEEDED FOR DEFENSE.

Such Will Be Argument to Save C. B. & C. Railroad.

Huntington, Ind., June 28.—Believing that the maintenance of the C. B. & C. railroad during the war emergency is essential, Peter Martin, chairman of the local council of national defense, went to Indianapolis yesterday to take up with the state council of national defense the proposal to keep the road in operation.

The Union Trust & Savings Company of Indianapolis, on behalf of itself and

Frank Jaqua, Portland attorney representing clients, creditors of the road, recently filed with the supreme court a request asking that the Huntington circuit court be mandated to withdraw the road from the hands of J. M. Wilson, present operator, and place the road up for sale without any restrictions. Stripped of its legal phraseology, the suit in effect asks that the circuit court sell the road to junk dealers, who will dismantle the line and dispose of all material as junk.

BIG BINGO IS POTENTATE OF THE ENTIRE CIRCUS ZOO

RINGLAND BROS. GIANT ELEPHANT FROM LATEST PORTRAIT.

Here is an excellent likeness of "Big Bingo." It is from a heretofore "unpublished photograph" of the elephant that is causing a great deal of discussion among scientists. It is an informal portrait of the giant snapped while he was being taken from the circus trains to the Ringland Brothers' exhibition tents.

Did "Big Bingo" have anything to say about it, he would probably protest against the publication of such a photograph only when dressed in one of his many gorgeous robes of plush and silver spangles. The pachyderm making such obvious attempts to keep in step with the giant is one of the largest elephants in America, yet it will be noted that he is a good half-head shorter than "Big Bingo." The trappers who captured "Bingo" in the forests of India state that he is the largest elephant ever seen in southern Asia. The mammoth will be here with Ringling Brothers' circus Thursday, July 12.

When on exhibition "Bingo" occupies a space in the very center of the block-long menagerie tent, which contains more than a thousand wild animals. Since the doors to this department will open a full hour before the commencement of the enchanting fairyland spectacle, "Cinderella," and the arena program in the connecting main tent, there will be ample time to see "Bingo" and all the other wonders of the zoo.

Eighteen Goose Eggs Are Given to the Chiefs by the Nuts

NARY A CHIEF MAKES COMPLETION OF PATH

Cummins Allows Five Runs But Rich, With Assistance, Holds Strong.

"Blankety-blank" is not a polite form of profanity here but just a summary of the scoring by the Chiefs in the double-header with Richmond yesterday. For eighteen innings the local players took their respective turns at the plate but not one of them could get around without mishap.

Three runs in the opening inning of the first game were enough to beat the Chiefs but the Nuts pounded in two more off of Cummins in the seventh, just to boost their batting averages. The Chiefs were practically helpless against Cy Young, and the backing he received was just about right. The second game was considerably better all the way around. Richardson held the opposition to four hits and although he was wild, allowing all sorts of passes, a little hitting on the part of his teammates would have won the game. Smith came through with some mighty pegging and caught every attempted steal but one.

An error by Siegfried started the scoring in the first inning of the first game. Rapp got a life on first through the blow and Evers and Jantzen singled, Rapp scoring. Crouch fanned but Coveleskie was passed, leading the bases. Gygil then singled, scoring two. Hauser fanned and J. Kelly stepped out. In the seventh Rapp again started the work. He beat out a single and went to second on Evers' sacrifice. Jantzen was walked and Crouch singled, sending Rapp home and Jantzen to third. He was scored on Coveleskie's sacrifice fly.

The second game, a scoreless battle until the sixth inning, had passed into history. Then Coveleskie was awarded a pass, sent to second on Gygil's out and scored on a hit. The Chiefs were unable to overcome the one-run lead and thus ended another chance to make a step out of the sub-cellar.

WHEN THEY WANT SHORTSTOPS THEY CALL ON M'CREIDIE.

Perhaps nobody in baseball has developed so many shortstops as Walter McCredie, manager of the Portland (Pacific coast league) club.

Beginning with Roger Peckinpaugh, one of the greatest shortstops of the game, McCredie has scarcely missed a year without sending a short feller to the big league.

After Peckinpaugh was sent to Cleveland, McCredie developed Ivan Olson, now with Brooklyn. A couple of years later he developed Dave Bancroft, of the Phillies, one of the greatest shortstops in the game, and last year turned out Chuck Ward.

McCredie's shortstop this year is Charley Hollocher, whom he declares is as good as any of the others he has sent up. He expects Hollocher to take hold with a big league club at the end of this season.

NATIONAL LEAGUE LEADS AMERICAN IN OUTPUT OF YOUNG BASEBALL STARS THIS SEASON.

(By Paul Purman).

For the first time in many years the National league this season is going to the front in the matter of producing young stars.

Practically every club in the league has given baseball one or more stars this year. Philadelphia being the only outfit which is going ahead without some material changes in the lineup carried last year.

A glance over the box scores shows some of the following new names in the regular lineups:

Boston—Massey, Rawlings, Wilhoit. Brooklyn—Hickman. Chicago—Elliott. New York—Kilduff, Kelly. Cincinnati—Custo, Neale. St. Louis—Craze, Long, Smith. Pittsburg—Bigbee, Piller.

There are others, of course, but these youngsters have come to the front surprisingly in the opening months of the season and now can be safely said to have reached the stage which has made regular big leaguers of them.

The work of Hickman and Cruise both at the bat and in the field has been especially sensational and during the last two weeks Bigbee's batting has improved tremendously.

Cruise has led the league in batting pretty consistently since the opening of the season and is constantly increasing his lead. Cruise has filled the shoes of the brilliant Becher in every way. He ranks fifth in the league in base stealing.

Hickman is filling a big hole in the losing Brooklyn club. His work in the corner of the garden formerly occupied by Hy Myers is consistent and he is clouting the ball with great regularity.

The surprise of the last two or three weeks has been Bigbee, whose batting during the early part of the year was disappointing. Since Bigbee has been hitting the outfit regularly he has been hitting at a .300 clip.

Benders and Evas Split.

South Bend, Ind., June 28.—A double-header between South Bend and Evansville yesterday was split two ways, the Benders taking the first 1 to 0, while the Evans came through with the necessary runs to win the second 4 to 2. Wheatley and Slattery for the locals, and Turner and Townsend for the visitors furnished the right brand of pitching to make the games good.

Reapers Stick to Top.

The second game went to the Black Sox 4 to 3, the winning run being made in the eighth on a walk, a stolen base and a single.

Boston, June 28.—Washington defeated Boston 7 to 6 in eleven innings yesterday. Shore, who last Saturday pitched a perfect game against the Senators, was on the rubber for Boston. He was hit hard at all stages of the game. Gallia started for the Senators but gave way to Ayers in the ninth. Washington scored three runs in the ninth, tying the score, two of the runs being scored when Shore hit first. The winning run was scored when Ayers singled with Leonard on second. Score: R.H.E. Washington ..... 1 0 0 0 2 0 0 8 1—7 13 4 Boston ..... 0 1 0 0 4 1 0 0 0—6 9 8 Batteries—Gallia, Alsmith, Ayers and Henry; Shore and Agnew.

Mackie Turn Tables.

New York, June 28.—Philadelphia stopped the Yankees yesterday after losing seven straight games to New York, the Athletics winning 2 to 1. The game developed into a pitchers' battle between Myers and Shawkey, formerly of the Athletics. Philadelphia won in the ninth when slow fielding by Hendryx enabled Bates to get a double. Score: R.H.E. Philadelphia ..... 1 0 0 0 0 0 0 2—3 7 1 New York ..... 0 0 0 0 1 0 0 0—1 9 1 Batteries—Myers and Haley; Shawkey and Nunamaker.

Indians Keep At It.

CHICAGO CLUB LOADED FOR SUNDAY'S BATTLE

Two players have been added to the Chicago Keystones, one of the Windy city's fastest semi-pro outfits, for their game with the Lincoln Lites at League park Sunday. Kinney, formerly with Billy Nielsen's Chicago Gunthers, and an outfielder whose name has not been announced, and who up until last week had been playing in the International league, are the additions.

McWenney and McGuire will form the battery for the visitors, with Ostermeyer and Deville working for the insurance men. McWenney was formerly with Dubuque in the Central association, and since joining the Keystones he has been the stumbling block for Chi's fastest semi-pros.

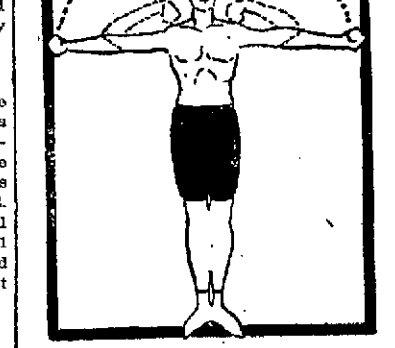

On July Fourth the Lincoln Lites will play at Convoy, O., and on the 8th they will go to Lima. July 22 they will go to Defiance to play Angie Grant's club.

Take Exercise When You Hop Out of Bed

(By Jim Rice, famous coach of Columbia Crew, and physical trainer for The Sentinels).

On tumbling out of bed, stand erect, brace the chest firmly out, and breathing deeply, curl the clenched hands from the outstretched position at the sides to the shoulder fifty times without stopping. This is a deep work enough for the early morning. It is done in the army and navy every morning.

Then, placing the tips of the finger on the floor (or as near to it as you can get) and bending your knees a little, and your arms not at all, rise to an upright position with the arms aloft fifty times. The loins and back have had their turn now.

Stand erect, brace the chest firmly out, and breathing deeply, curl the clenched hands from the outstretched position at the sides to the shoulder fifty times without stopping.

After a minute's rest, standing erect, swing the outstretched arms as far back as possible, touching ears when the hands reach the highest point behind to hold them there a moment. Now the under side of your arms, and about the whole of the upper back have had their work.

Next, starting with the clenched fists at the shoulders, push them up snappily along over the head fifty times. In this way the outer part of the upper arms, the corners of the shoulders and the waist have all had active duty.

Finally, after another minute's rest start with the clenched fists high over the head, lower them slowly and deliberately, bringing every muscle into play until the arms are in about the position they would be on a cross, the elbows being always kept unbent. Do this twenty times. This last exercise is one of the best known chest expands.

If you want to add a little hand and forearm work catch a broomstick or stout cane at or near the middle and holding it at arm's length, twist it rapidly from side to side a hundred times with one hand and then with the other.

Tells How One Town Is "DOING ITS BIT" By Planting Huge Garden

AGRICULTURAL STUDENTS OF CLEBURNE, (TEXAS) HIGH SCHOOL AT WORK IN GARDEN

Farmers Who Formerly Wanted to See the "Professor Plow," Now Come to Him for Instruction

BY BERTHA G. SCHMIDT.

IN THE 15 cents a pound, cabbages 30 cents each, potatoes 30 a bushel. Such prices ought not to be, think the citizens of Cleburne, Tex., a town of 15,000 inhabitants, so they're carrying on a plan to lower the cost of living, and in so doing are setting an example for other cities which is attracting nationwide attention.

Public schools and women's clubs are co-operating in the work. This year the high school students will cultivate thirty-five acres of ground, and through the combined activities of the Civic League, the superintendent of schools and the instructor in agriculture, every vacant lot and back yard will become a garden spot.

"Every city should have more gardens," said W. C. Homeyer, professor of agriculture in the Cleburne High School. "People are complaining about the high cost of living, paying an exorbitant price for vegetables, and, meantime, the soil in their back yards is standing idle, whereas it might as well be bringing them in a money return and profitable hours spent in beneficial exercise, breathing fresh air, and in the keen joy of seeing the blade and the plant increase in growth from day to day."

Prepare by Raising Food.

"We should put forth all our efforts to grow as much foodstuff as possible. The war will demand a greater supply of eatables, many of our agricultural employees will be taken away, and we should lend a hand in the campaign of preparedness by keeping up the food supply, especially since we are trying to help feed other nations. We will be producing less and using more. This, of course, will have a tendency to increase prices even above what they are at the present time. A man who helps to produce food is showing his loyalty to his country. It is up to those who stay at home to feed the army."

Cleburne's preparedness policy is no wild sensation of the moment. It is backed up by five years of experience along this line in the public schools and three of constant effort among the women workers through the Civic League.

Emmett Brown, superintendent of public schools in Cleburne, was the first enthusiast for agricultural work. Practical agriculture was begun in 1911 with a few vacant lots as the laboratory grounds, and with W. S. Ownsby, head of the science department, as instructor. Interest in agriculture grew so rapidly that, two years ago, W. C. Homeyer was employed to take complete charge of the agricultural department.

Due in large measure to this department, the school has doubled in number of students in three years, and several are furthering their education along this line at the Texas A. and M. College.

Thirty-Five Acres in Garden.

Last year the school had only eight acres under cultivation. This year twenty-seven more have been added. It will be necessary to plant this newly acquired land in cotton because of soil conditions, but Homeyer favors the growing of foodstuff wherever the soil has been broken.

The school will have an acre of corn, chiefly for roasting ears; one and a half acres each of Sudan grass and sorghum and an acre of peanuts for the mules; nearly an acre of potatoes; three-fourths of an acre of cabbages and tomatoes and a fourth acre of black-eyed peas. Besides these thirty-four acres belonging to the school, there are forty-nine gardens—that is, individual plots. Practically all the vegetables common to this community are grown in rotation by the pupils on these plots. They include radishes, lettuce, beets, turnips, spinach, parsley, English peas, beans, potatoes, cabbages, tomatoes, peppers, black-eyed peas, okra, carrots, cucumbers and onions.

Thirty boys and twenty girls are enrolled for the course in agriculture. Many of the girls never handled a hoe or spade before, but they have become as skillful with these implements as with tennis racket or hockey stick. In fact, when you see a brigade of them walking to the vacant lots after school you might at first mistake them for lovers of these sports, but their after-school hours are spent in weeding gardens and exclaiming in delight over the growth of stalk or its fruit.

Students Furnish Seeds.

The students furnish the seeds and plants for their individual plots. The result of the school work is that many of the boys and girls have plots of their own the following year. At present only one year's work is offered in agriculture, but when the new building is erected the course will be increased to two years.

The proceeds from the school gardens amount to between $400 and $500 a year. So far, they have nearly all gone toward the equipment, consisting of two teams of mules, a wagon, mowing machine, cultivator, disc and all the other necessary implements.

Each student in the agricultural class prepares and cultivates a plot of 45 square yards. The income from these plots, averaging $4.50, goes to the students. Prizes are given for the best gardens, variety being taken into consideration, as well as the absence of weeds, straight rows and stands. Virtually all the work on the field crops is also done by the students.

Homeyer is employed for twelve months of the year and believes that much of the success of his department is due to this fact. Some of the boys assist him throughout the summer and thereby reduce the amount of field work necessary for them to do during the winter.

Also Helps Farmers.

Homeyer's duties are not limited to teaching agriculture to the boys and girls. When the department was first added to the school, farmers came to "see the professor plow." Now they come to seek help.

By means of a small laboratory cotton gin special selected seed is given for the farmers. Many of the school patrons are taking advantage of a tester and are determining the per cent of butterfat in milk, thereby learning if their cow is paying her board.

The looks of many a tree and rose bush have been changed by proper pruning. Homeyer receiving special requests to work over trees that seemed sick. He also assists in the ward schools, often giving lectures at chapel period.

Mother's clubs of the schools are co-operating in the work of the agricultural department in the organization of canning clubs.

"If we are going to grow more foodstuff we certainly ought to preserve a part of it for winter use," said Homeyer. "Too many of us do not realize the benefit of vegetables in the winter diet. When meat is so high it is well, too, not to overlook the value of such vegetables as beans, peas and lentils, which are rich in proteins."

Further incentive for garden plots will be given this spring by the Civic League. The league will offer prizes for the best gardens, a fund for which is being raised by means of weekly teas, which all women with civic pride are urged to attend. And Cleburne is not lacking in women with civic pride.

The guiding spirit in this work is Mrs. Florence C. Floore, state chairman of the Texas Federation of Women's Clubs. She is receiving co-operation in the garden plan because she has been behind the movement for a cleaner, more beautiful Cleburne for three years. Helping to make Cleburne a better city is more than Mrs. Floore's avocation—it is her vocation. She is devoting her time, her thought and her money to this purpose.

Studies Civic Improvement.

"The greatest danger which besets women's work is ignorance," she says. "Frequently the enthusiasm of women runs away with their judgment, and both time and money are wasted because the work is not wisely planned. For, as George Elliot's Mrs. Poyser, that most practical of housekeepers, used to say: 'I'm not denying that women are foolish; the Lord Almighty made them to match the men.'"

Feeling that the need of club women is a knowledge of the fundamentals of civic improvement, Mrs. Floore studied six weeks at Chautauqua last summer under Mabel Hill of Wellesley and under Scott Nearing. She also had a number of conferences with Clinton Rodgers Woodruff, editor of the National Municipal Review, at Philadelphia, and secretary of the National Municipal League; with Frederick Howe, United States commissioner at Ellis Island; with George Ford, city planning man for New York, and with Harold and Edgar Buttenheim, editors of the American City. Then she conferred with Miss Mary E. Gearing, head of economics of Texas University. In order that the clubs might have a working plan, Miss Gearing prepared a questionnaire on civic survey. This survey includes health protection, civic beauty, waste disposal, water, streets and sidewalks, parks and playgrounds. Under each heading is a set of simple questions, answers to many of which can be obtained from the town authorities.

"Know Your Town" Slogan.

Mrs. Floore had these questionnaires made at her own expense. A copy is to be sent to each woman's club in the state doing civic work. Since October ten towns have completed surveys and ten others are now making them. The results of those surveys are to be sent to the capital and tabulated that prospective settlers can find out the inducements offered by these towns.

"Know your town," is the slogan adopted by the Civic League. In order to gain co-operation Mrs. Floore enlisted the help of the newspapers. When the survey was begun everyone knew its purpose and, with the assistance of capable women, the necessary information was soon gleaned.

"In any reform movement, the best place to start is with the children," said Mrs. Floore. "You know someone has said that 'One reformer is worth a dozen reformers.'"

"Children love to be useful. They can do a great deal in beautifying and cleaning up a city."

"Last year $75 was given in prizes for the most beautiful yards; this year, because of the war, prizes will be offered for the best vegetable gardens. The co-operation of the children will be sought also in the elimination of flies and mosquitoes. Whether we shall offer prizes for the latter is doubtful. Boys are very ingenious. I have seen one instance of where they bred flies in decaying meat in order to kill them for presentation in the contest."

AN ELEPHANT'S REVENGE

IT IS generally maintained by travelers that Ceylon elephants are without tusks as a rule, and as good authority as Sir Samuel Baker states that not more than one in 300 elephants is provided with them. This must be a mistake, as a well-known traveler has given an account of an adventure with Ceylon elephants that contradicts this theory. We give the story in the traveler's own words:

"A high stand had been erected on one side of the kraal to enable those at the scene to view the noosing of the elephants after they had been driven into the enclosure. This stand was handsomely decorated, carpeted and furnished with seats."

"All were enjoying the excitement and grand sight of the intelligence displayed by the tame elephants in breaking down the underwood and trees that obstructed the view, and which had been left standing in order to hide the scaffolding from the wild animals until they had been safely kraaled. One huge tusker, in particular worked with a will and seemed determined to do the lion's share of the work. Everything went down before him."

"Things were in this state, and the tusker was working away steadily about 10 yards from the stand, when the mahout dropped his spear. He desired his assistant to slip off and bring it around behind the animal from the left to the right side and hand it up."

"The man dropped off, picked up the spear, but instead of doing what he was told, stepped forward to the creature's head on the left side and handed it up."

"The moment he did so the animal turned sharp half round and gave the man a butt with the upper part of the trunk, which was rolled up. He gave one cry and went over like a nine-pin."

"In an instant the elephant was on his knees over the man, at whom he made a heavy lunge with both tusks. When he raised his head there was but one task; the other had been broken off short and was left firmly imbedded in the ground. Again, instantly, another lunge, and up came the one tusk covered with blood; again another heavy lunge, and then he rose proudly, flourished his trunk and trumpeted a wild pean. It was the end story."

"On inquiry it appeared that the dead man had been in the habit of treating the creature with cruelty, and that twice previously during the week had that elephant attempted the man's life, but had been foiled. The third time he saw his opportunity, and seized it on the instant. "The moment the affair was over, before the elephant had time to wink, he was hustled out of the enclosure by the mahout and securely fastened by four very powerful chains, one to each leg, to separate trees."

"In half an hour he was perfectly mad and unapproachable even by his keepers, and remained so for a month. Had the driver not regained his seat and lost control, or given the elephant time to recover his thoughts, he would have become unmanageable, have infected the other tame elephants, one or two of which were already in much the same state, these would have broken loose, joined the wild ones—twenty-two in number—and the enclosure would certainly not have held them."

"The consequences would have been very serious. Infuriated elephants, together with comparatively harmless but terrified ones, would have been rushing all over a town made of leaves and twigs, with 5000 people crowded together, and hundreds of horses and cattle."

"One word more about the tuskers. Ceylon, as a rule, does not breed tuskers, but there are some, and very fine ones, too. The elephants which were at the kraal just spoken of were collected from all parts of the island, and were nearly all tuskers of the finest quality. Old Waliza, 10 feet high, carried his noble tusks and nose so high in the air that a well-grown man could walk under them easily."

SHOP AND RAILROAD NEWS

POND LILY TRAIN IS RESTORED TO SERVICE

Will Make Semi-Weekly Trips Between Ft. Wayne and Rome City.

At the earnest solicitation of the Rome City cottagers, the Grand Rapids & Indiana Railroad company has consented to run the "pond lily" to the resort on a semi-weekly schedule. The days on which the service will be given is only decided in part. Some of the cottagers want Monday and Wednesday for the return trip and others want Monday and Thursday. As soon as they definitely decide upon the mid-week trip of the train, the schedule will be definitely fixed. It is settled, however, that Monday will be one of the days, the train leaving the lake at the same hour it did last year. The first trip from the lake will be made next Monday morning, July 2, when it is hoped to be able to announce the day for the mid-week trip.

CONGRATULATED COUPLE.

Mr. and Mrs. Williams Receive an Unexpected Honor.

An incident of the wedding of Mr. and Mrs. John Williams not planned by the couple was an informal reception on Lafayette street. In front of the Pennsylvania blacksmith shop, where the employees surrounded the carriage and groom after they had refused to alight and visit the shops. While some of the men talked to the bride and groom others decorated the rear and sides of the cab with old shoes and "silk." Charles Szink, a shopmate of the groom, was driver on the carriage and the reception is believed to be a "frame up" by him. However, it was enjoyed by all and possibly more so by the shopmen. Mr. and Mrs. Williams were en route from the church to a photograph gallery when the incident at the shops occurred.

HUNDREDS AT GARRETT.

Went in Autos and on the Traction Line.

The rain and generally disagreeable weather of the early part of the day kept many people from going to Garrett to attend the firemen's tournament today, but despite the weather conditions, several hundred people went there. Many more will go later to take in the band concert and free exhibitions that will be given after supper. The attendance at the tournament is the largest in the history of the association, it is said, and the program is one of the best. The lateness of the hour at which the events take place prevents The Sentinel from giving the result of the contests today.

NEW TIME CARD SUNDAY.

Pennsylvania Will Make Change in Three Trains.

The new time card of the Pennsylvania, which becomes effective next Sunday, will not vary greatly from the present excellent schedule. The change will affect only three trains. No. 49, due at 3:25 a. m., will show on the card as coming in forty-five minutes later; No. 111, coming in at 8:40 p. m., will be ten minutes earlier; No. 136, due at 2:55 a. m., will be five minutes earlier. People who contemplate a trip over the Pennsylvania will do well to bear in mind these changes, particularly of the time of trains 111 and 136, lest they get left.

LAUGHABLE FEATURE OF ELECTRO-TECHNIC FIELD MEET

The accompanying picture will recall to memory the most laughable of the events on the program of the Electro-Technic field meet at Swinney park last Saturday afternoon—the rooster race. It represents the winners and their drivers, the latter being, from right to left, M. S. Willson, August Kayser and A. L. Hadley, who hold responsible positions with the General Electric company. There were six roosters in this race, each attached to a six or eight-foot string and the "scheme" was to drive or "shoot" them over a fifty-foot course, the first three arriving at the home base to be declared the winners. Messrs. Willson, Kayser and Hadley had comparatively little difficulty in "driving" their birds over the course, it being accomplished in ten minutes. F. S. Hunting, E. A. Barnes and William Martin were less fortunate. Mr. Hunting's rooster laid down within ten feet of the goal and absolutely refused to move. The birds driven by Mr. Barnes and Mr. Martin failed to get a correct idea of what was expected from them and, being of the same variety, they got into a fight, which did not end until the three shown in the picture reached the home base and were declared winners. This race not only created a vast amount of amusement, but it demonstrated the tactical attributes of the men who, a part of the time at least, were back of the roosters. They would make good generals.

HAD FINGER BADLY HURT.

While in the Pennsylvania toolroom yesterday morning H. T. Adams, an apprentice on the last stretch of the apprenticeship term, inadvertently laid his right hand upon a planer which was in operation and the index finger was caught in the machinery and stripped of flesh from the first joint. The young man was taken to the hospital, where Dr. VanSwearingen attended him. The bone of the finger was not injured and amputation was not necessary, but it will be several weeks before the wounded finger will recover. Mr. Adams is employed in another part of the shop than that in which the accident occurred.

GONE TO VISIT OLD HOME.

Passengers on Wabash train No. 1 which left the city at 11:20 today, were Mr. and Mrs. William McGrath and sons, Harmon and Edward McGrath. They are bound for Urbana, Ill., which was their home once. Mr. McGrath is a machinist and before he came to Fort Wayne to work in the Pennsylvania shops, he resided in Urbana and was employed for five years in the shop of the Big Four company in that city. At present he is a gang foreman in the Pennsylvania erecting shop. Mrs. McGrath's parents reside in Urbana and they go there to visit them.

SUNSET LEAGUE GAMES.

The Sunset league of the General Electric works has two games this evening at the close of working hours at the shop. The "All Stars" of the dynamo assembling department, and the ice machine makers will play at Lawton park and the apparatus boys and the toolmakers will play at Foster park. Interest in the league is growing and each game is being pulled off before a big crowd of spectators.

TOOK POSITION AT BOWSER'S.

R. E. Giehrst, a clerk in the Pennsylvania round house for a year or more, resigned this morning to take employment with S. F. Bowser & Co. He will work in the machine department.

INDUSTRIAL NOTES.

Gang Foreman Frank Burns, of the Pennsylvania round house, is sick and unable to work.

Charles Seville, Wabash electrician, went to Toledo on business this morning.

Carl F. Miller, a clerk in the Pennsylvania round house office, is on duty again after a four or five days' illness.

Bob Koehlinger, employed for some time as a helper in the day force at the Pennsylvania tool room, has been transferred to the night force and promoted to operator of a drill press.

Mrs. Armour Romary, of 1430 Stophlet street, is in the St. Joseph hospital for an operation. Mrs. Romary's husband is a machinist under Foreman W. Wehrs at the General Electric works.

L. L. Lyberg, a machinist, and Joseph E. McLaughlin, a helper, are new men at the Pennsylvania machine shop. McLaughlin is a young fellow who completed his school term this month.

H. Rohrbach, of the Pennsylvania erecting shop, is off on a vacation. He went to Rome City this morning and a few days later will go to Clear Lake to stay several days. He is an ardent lover of piscatorial pleasures.

WOMEN TAKE UP MEN'S WORK

Two Protect Crossings and Six at Nickel Plate Shops.

WAR IS GIVEN

AS THE CAUSE

All Agree That the Hours Are Long But They Don't Mind.

The Nickel Plate is carrying out its announcement that it would give employment to women in the shops, offices, at street crossings and in other positions heretofore open only to men. There are two women acting as crossing watchmen in the city—at Clay and at Ewing streets.

At Clay street, Mrs. Nora Walker, a widow, presides and is most attentive to her duty. She began work Tuesday morning and says she is pleased with it. When reminded that the hours—from 6 a. m. to 10 p. m.—were a good many for a woman to serve each day, she remarked, "Yes, the hours are long, but the work is easy. You know there is always some objectionable feature to every position. I worked many years in the factory and I like this work better," and as she quit talking she took up her signal flag and walked to the middle of the street to guard the crossing. A freight train was approaching from the east. Mrs. Walker was employed for some time in one of the big city laundries and later at the Knitting mills.

The lady who has charge of the Ewing street crossing also worked at the Knitting mills, silk department, and she likes her job better than factory work. She does not have as many hours as does Mrs. Walker, for the Ewing street crossing is protected by watchmen only between the hours of 8 a. m. and 6 p. m.

M. J. Meldrum, general foreman at the round house and shops, has increased the number of female help there to eleven. One works in the oil house and the other five engine wipers and round house workers.

The war is causing a scarcity of men and the employment of women to take their places has become necessary. The women are receiving men's wages.

ALLOW VETERANS TO REGISTER FOR VOTE

Matter of Eligibility is Shifted to Clerks of Precincts.

The election board has ruled that veterans of the civil war and of the Spanish-American war are eligible to register for city election, regardless of their naturalization standing.

The new edict comes as the result of a civil suit threatened by Paul J. Reiman, 2723 Bowser avenue, a Spanish-American war veteran. Reiman claims that his war service makes him eligible for the ballot, although he was born in Germany and his father had secured only his first naturalization papers. Reiman threatened a damage suit unless allowed to register. He said he had consulted an attorney and was sure that there were grounds for action.

Civil and Spanish-American war veterans have been refused the opportunity of registering so far this year. The board held that war service did not establish citizenship. Certain attorneys hold that war veterans have always been allowed to vote and that their service to the country shows their loyalty.

Reiman holds the honor of being the first unnaturalized citizen to register for the city vote. His right to cast a ballot may be challenged by the precinct election clerks. The election board has shifted the responsibility to those who will be in authority at the polling places election day. Much confusion may result, a registration clerk admitted Thursday.

There are more than twenty-five civil war veterans who have not been naturalized and who were refused registration rights this spring. These men are now expected to sign for the ballot right. There are thought to be about sixty Spanish-American war veterans who are not fully naturalized and who may try to vote under the new ruling.

GERMAN MINISTER TO BRAZIL ON WAY HOME

New York, June 28.—Do. Adolph Paul, former German minister to Brazil, and W. von Sanden, who prior to the break in diplomatic relations, was minister to Bolivia, arrived here today on a Dutch steamship from South American ports. The two officials were accompanied by thirty-six German consular officers and attaches from the two countries and will continue on the same ship to Amsterdam to which port they have been granted safe conduct by Great Britain and allied nations.

Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Wohler, and Henry Wohler, of Lansing, Mich., who had been the guests of Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Kreckman, 913 University street, motored back to their home, taking with them Miss Dorothy Kreckman who expects to remain a fortnight. With the party also went Harry Wohler, who has been visiting in the city since the close of the theological seminary of St. Louis, Mo.

HAMILTON AVENUE, SOUTH SIDE, IS CENTER OF NEW RESIDENCE NEIGHBORHOOD

View of Hamilton Avenue Looking Toward Hanna Street in Welser Park Addition.

A large corps of workmen are busy this week paving Hamilton avenue, the central thoroughfare in Welser Park addition, which will be opened for the sale of lots. The above photograph, made this week by Standish, is a view looking toward the Hanna street entrance to Welser Park addition. Showing two of the new houses in the addition. The L. F. Cordes Realty company, which is developing the tract, is giving to buyers of lots the very best public improvements. Many are attracted to the place this week, especially the men employed in the shops and factories of the southeastern portion of the city.

SAYS COAL OPERATORS OVERLOOKED A BET

For Some Reason Bunker Coal Price in 1916 Lower Than in 1915.

New York, June 28.—A letter stating that "through the foolishness of some of the operators," the bunker coal price in 1916 was lower than the 1915 prices, whereas it ought to have been higher," was introduced by the government today in the trial of operators and corporations in the Virginia and West Virginia semi-bituminous coal fields. The defendants are charged with restraining trade and fixing prices. The communication relating to bunker coal prices was identified by a government witness, W. W. Willette, of Boston, president of the Chesapeake and Ohio Coal agency, and was written on Sept. 22, last, to W. H. Holland, of the Ballinger Coal company, of Nuttallburg, W. Va., who is a defendant. Mr. Willette had testified, although he was not a member of the smokeless coal operators' association, he had been appointed chairman of that organization's bunker coal committee.

The letter he identified read: "As you know, we do a great deal of bunker business at Newport News and over a period of years. The bunker trade has paid better than other business. This year's business, through the foolishness of some of the operators, permitting a lower figure to be quoted, resulted in the 1916 price being lower than for 1915, when it ought to have been higher. I have been made chairman of the bunker coal committee and I shall work very earnestly to obtain a price for 1917 which will result in attractive returns for our operators and unless some of the suppliers do foolish things there is no reason why we should not receive a good price for 1917."

Mr. Willette testified that his price for bunker coal was $2.10 for last April and that two months ago it was $5 a ton. The witness told of meetings held to discuss bunker business and of a so-called London agreement relating to bunker coal purchased in this country for consumption abroad.

MISS PHILLEY'S RECITAL.

A highly pleasing program was given at the Strand theater this morning by pupils of Miss Anna Philley, assisted by Mrs. Georgia Wirth Jones, organist, and Miss Grace Sivitts, pianist, who contributed to the pleasure of a good sized audience. Not only were the readings of the pupils a credit to Miss Philley but her own selection from "Ingomar" was delivered with a dignity and a clarity of diction that was fine.

PASS REQUIRED TO TRIAL OF EMMA GOLDMAN

New York, June 28.—When the trials of Alexander Berkman, editor of the Blast, and Emma Goldman, another anarchist, charged with conspiracy to obstruct the operation of the selective draft law, were resumed here today no one was permitted in the court room who did not hold a pass from the United States marshal's office. These precautions were being taken because of the number of threatening letters which have been received by Judge Mayer, who is hearing the case. The court room is closely guarded by detectives and secret service men. Berkman announced that he would continue to act as his own attorney. Seven jurymen had been accepted when the trial was resumed this morning.

TODAY'S BEAUTY TALK

You can enjoy a delightful shampoo with very little effort and for a very trifling cost, if you get from your druggist a package of canthrox and dissolve a teaspoonful in a cup of hot water. This makes a full cup of shampoo liquid, enough so it is easy to apply it to all the hair instead of just the top of the head. Your shampoo is now ready. Just pour a little at a time on the scalp and hair until both are entirely covered by the daintily perfumed preparation that thoroughly dissolves and removes every bit of dandruff, excess oil and dirt. After rinsing, the hair dries quickly, with a fluffiness that makes it seem heavier than it is, and takes on a rich lustre and a softness that makes arranging it a pleasure.

MAIL SERVICE FOR FIVE HUNDRED MORE

Rerouting of Allen County Should Be in Action by July 15.

Five hundred more Allen county citizens will receive the benefits of rural mail service as the result of the systematic re-routing of the delivery courses. The new delivery system is expected to be placed into effect July 15.

Postoffice Inspector Chase, of Washington, has been in Fort Wayne for the past week going over the route plans of the county with Postmaster R. C. Miller. The careful routing of the county is one of the "nobles" upon which Mr. Miller has given most attention. Two copies of the registration figures will be sent from Fort Wayne. One list will go to Washington and another to Indianapolis.

Inspector Chase returned to Washington on Thursday. He will have official maps made of the new rural route charts. These charts will be approved by Postmaster Miller. Copies of the charts will be sent to each postmaster in Allen county. Then the new delivery system will be placed in operation.

Several miles of delivery service have been added in the county by the rearrangement of the routes. No new routes have been added by the plan. The expenses of delivery will not be increased and yet 500 more people will be given the advantage of free delivery service. There will be less doubling back along the routes under the new scheme.

"The main object is to take the mail to more people," said Postmaster Miller Thursday. "I believe that every farmer possible should have the blessing of mail delivery."

MANY MERCHANTS SIGN AGREEMENT TO CLOSE

During July and August Doors Will Be Locked Saturday Evenings.

Through the efforts of Will H. Rohan, of the Wolf & Dessauer store, the signatures of practically every big downtown store in the city has been secured to the agreement to close on Saturday evenings during the months of July and August. The agreement follows:

"We, the undersigned merchants of Fort Wayne, agree to close our stores at 8 o'clock on Saturday of July and August, 1917."

The plan was tried last summer by a number of the merchants. However, many new merchants have been added to the Saturday night closing this summer.

"ALIEN ENEMY" REPORT READY FOR CAPITALS

Compiling of the reports on the registration of "alien enemies" will be completed Thursday evening. Deputy United States Marshal Harry Miller gives out. Two copies of the registration figures will be sent from Fort Wayne. One list will go to Washington and another to Indianapolis.

THE MARKETS

MILLERS DISAGREE AS TO WHEAT QUOTATIONS

Two Companies Lower the Figures Five Cents But One Sticks Tight.

Local millers disagreed as to wheat quotations Thursday and a wide range of prices offered for the grain is the result. Two companies dealing in the scarce article lowered their figures 5c, while the third, which is always the higher, made no change. The quotations resulting are $2.25 to $2.32 per bushel. No changes were made in flour.

Receipts continued on the slump Thursday, and fourteen loads were all that were weighed at the city scales. Ten of these were hay, selling at $12.00 to $13.00. This bottom price is $1 higher than that of Wednesday, while the top prices is $1 lower. Four loads of corn were taken up at $1.56 to $1.60, a slight weakening being noted. Two loads of oats sold at 63¢ to 64¢ per bushel, where 70c was paid Wednesday.

FIRMNESS RULES IN THE STOCK EXCHANGE

Exception in Motor Group and Specialties.

New York, June 28.—With the exception of the motor group and a few high priced specialties, firmness ruled at the outset of today's dealings. United States Steel advanced a large fraction, affiliated issues recording similar or greater gains. Equipments, some of the metals and oils, Pittsburg Coal and Ohio Gas shared in the rise, which was attended by considerable activity. General Motors, Studebaker, Texas Company and Industrial Alcohol were reactionary, with declines of one to two points. A sale of Brooklyn Union Gas at 19½ represented a loss of almost twelve points. Ralls were dull and irregular.

Liquidation and short selling of the automobile divisions, oils and utilities soon became so general as to affect the entire list. Ohio Gas yielded six and Alcohol as much, Texas company falling 3½. U. S. Steel reacted a point, but developed fresh strength with Crucible Steel, Baldwin Locomotive and American Car, Copper, shipbuilding and rails continued quiet at minor changes. Rallies of one to three points in the more speculative issues set in at noon.

Bonds were irregular, dealings in liberty 3½ being at par or better.

Steel and some of the motors and oils made lowest prices in the final hour, other leaders yielding proportionately. The closing was heavy. Liberty bonds were active at par to a slight premium.

PENNSYLVANIA HAS MILLIONS TO SPEND

Legislature Has Placed Big
Sum at Disposal of State for War.

Harrisburgh, Pa., June 28.—War measures designed to enable Pennsylvania to perform her share in the present war, formed a prominent part of the legislation passed by the general assembly, which adjourned sine die today, after having been in session since January 2.

The state, which is clear of debt, was authorized by the legislature to issue bonds not exceeding $5,000,000, for the defense of the commonwealth in any emergency that may arise out of the war. In addition $2,000,000 was appropriated to a newly created board known as the state commission of public safety and defense. This commission had already appropriated out of this fund nearly $200,000 to the public safety committee of Pennsylvania, made up of representative citizens of the state, which is aiding in recruiting the army and navy, conserving food supply and otherwise aiding the federal government along lines suggested by the council of national defense at Washington.

Other war measures include the appropriation of $1,500,000 for the construction of armories to take care of the augmented units of the national guard; $185,000 for the improvement of the state camp grounds at Mount Gretna; $282,000 for the equipment of the national guard for war service; establishment of a reserve state militia to take the place of the regular national guard when it enters the federal service, and authorizing additional units to complete a tactical division of the national guard.

Bills were also passed authorizing banks, trust companies, corporations and building and loan associations to invest their surplus capital in state and federal war bonds, authorizing the governor to appoint volunteer police during the war, authorizing the state, counties and municipalities to pay salaries of employees who enlist.

The legislature appropriated approximately $33,000,000 for all state purposes. Of this amount $18,500,000 is for roads; $16,000,000 for schools. Many millions were voted to provide for public charities.

The most important revenue raiser passed was a direct inheritance tax of two per cent.

GENERAL BELL GIVES ADVICE TO SOLDIERS

Tells Engineers and Artillery to Keep Credit of Country High.

New York, June 28.—Major General J. Franklin Bell commanding the department of the east, reviewed a regiment of engineers and a regiment of coast artillery at a fort near here late yesterday. In addressing the troops he said, "In a short time most of you will be in Europe and probably by and by all of you. You must every one of you remember that each soldier will be the representative of this country while over there. Do not base your standard of conduct on what you may expect of others, for remember, that you should conduct yourself in a manner fitting the representatives of such a great and altruistic nation."

"The American soldier is liberally paid and does not have to stoop to petty things. I am sure that no self-respecting, upright, honest and scrupulous man would descend to little things even like taking small fruit that you may come across. That would be looked upon as an act creditable to you. I say for every thing you get and in your conduct to the French be as generous as you can."

Chicago, June 28.—Wholesale prices of potatoes here dropped 40 to 65 cents a bushel yesterday, to the lowest level of this year. Receipts were only sixty cars and sales were made at $2.40 and $2.65 a bushel.

FISHBACK MURDER CASE GOES TO THE JURY

Effort is Made to Fasten
Guilt on Others, But
Court Objects.

Hartford City, Ind., June 28.—The case against William Fishback, charged with the murder of Roy E. Brown, of Redkey, went to the jury late this afternoon. Both the state and defense rested at 1 o'clock yesterday afternoon. Arrangements were made for six hours of argument on each side. There was a night session last evening.

The evidence which the defense intended to present to the effect that Harry Weiss admitted killing Brown was excluded by the court. Fishback testified in his own behalf yesterday, and denied any connection with the disappearance of Brown. He is said to have made a good witness and is believed to have made a favorable impression upon the jury. Fishback testified that he was home on the night the murder is alleged to have been committed. His wife also testified that her husband was home on this night.

Fishback testified that he didn't know Brown had disappeared until the Monday after the night on which Brown is supposed to have been murdered. He was at home helping his wife with the washing at the time he heard the Brown story, he declared.

COUNTY DEFENSE COUNCIL ORGANIZED

W. H. SCHEIMANN,
President.

FRANK E. ROHN,
Vice President.

J. ROSS MCCULLOCH,
Treasurer.

CHARLES R. LANE,
Secretary.

Organization of the Allen County Council for Defense organized at a meeting held at the Commercial club, Wednesday evening. The officers are named above. The other members as they were appointed by Judge J. W. Eggeman are Rev. A. J. Folsom, F. S. Hunting and Mrs. George Evans. The secretary was instructed to report the election of officers to Judge Eggeman who in turn must report to the state organization.

The local council was already organized and ready for work when the national and the state councils of defense were begun and the effort was made to have the council recognized as the Allen County Council of Defense. For the sake of uniformity all over the nation it was thought best to have the Council for Patriotic Service appear on the books at Indianapolis as the Allen County Council of Defense.

Under this advice the Allen County Council of Defense was appointed by Judge Eggeman so that it should consist of the same persons as compose the executive committee of the local council with the exception of Judge Eggeman and Miss Hamilton, the latter being out of town for three months.

For all local service either initiated here or performed under instructions from the state council the Council for Patriotic Service will be the agency. The council will stand on the records at Indianapolis, however, as the Allen County Council of Defense.
